OAKLANDER FINED AND JAILED

Attorney D. C. De Golia Receives Sentence of Six Months on Fraud Charge

Prominent Lawyer Is Shocked by Judgment in United States Court

SAN FRANCISCO, March 30.—Darwin C. De Golia, a prominent attorney of Oakland, was sentenced to six months' imprisonment in the Alameda county jail and fined $500 for using the mails to defraud, by United States District Judge Farrington this morning.

De Golia was found guilty in the United States District court of having written letters while acting as attorney for the estate of William C. Whitmore, which it is claimed, tended to defraud.

Following Whitmore's death, De Golia located a nephew, Otis Whitmore, in Boston, and secured a contract to handle his interest in the estate left by the uncle for one-quarter of the amount. Later De Golia got a check for $172,490 from the administrator of the estate which was in fact half the property instead of the one-fourth which represented the original contract.

De Golia went to court this morning confident that a fine only would be imposed and when he was given a prison term he went to his seat pushed and downcast. Former Superior Judge A. L. Erick, of Oakland, counsel for the defendant, made an ardent plea in his behalf, but because restitution had not been made, the court felt it a duty to send the accused man to jail.

"I think, if your honor please," said Erick, "that the previous reputation of the defendant should be

Woman Suicide, in Farewell Letter, Places Blame on Husband

Declares He Beat Her and Spent Money Left by First Spouse

SAN FRANCISCO, March 30.—After declaring in a farewell letter that her husband had wasted the fortune left her by her first spouse and that he was in the habit of beating her, Mrs. Mabel E. Keeley, wife of Dr. Earl Keeley, who recently arrived here from Honolulu, committed suicide this morning.

The Keeleys had been married scarcely a year and had lived on the Hawaiian Islands until a month ago, when Mrs. Keeley came to this city. She was followed by her husband, who arrived early this week. They rented a flat at 2124 B Market street, and last night Dr. Keeley went out for an evening's enjoyment, returning at 2 a. m. He found his wife dead on a lounge in the dining room, with the apartment flooded with gas. The stopcock on the heater was turned on, and written in an Hawaiian book, entitled the "Paradise of the Pacific," was found the words:

"12 a. m. turned on the gas. You know why."

Inside the book the following unsigned letter explaining the situation was found:

"Dear S.: I have concluded to take your valuable advice, as have many others to these dwellers, so it will probably prove to be mine, but here goes for better or for worse. Ask yourself this question: Who is really

GIRL PUTS THIEF TO ROUT

Young Woman Has Thrilling Encounter With Armed Burglar in Hotel

Forces Intruder Down Fire Escape and Prevents Theft of Jewels

SAN FRANCISCO, March 30.—Batting for her life with a bold burglar who had made his way into her apartment at 5 o'clock this morning, Miss Ethel Irving, who lives at the Grant Hotel, 733 Bush street, saved her valuable diamonds and finally put the man to flight.

The intruder made his way to Miss Irving's room by means of the fire escape, and he had succeeded in gaining entrance and had already taken a bracelet valued at $25 from the dresser near the window when he noticed the young woman stirring in bed. Crouching low beneath the window sill, he tried to escape her observation but without avail.

Within almost arm's length on the bureau were Miss Irving's diamond earrings, several brooches and pins and other jewelry aggregating a large sum of money.

GRAPPLES WITH BURGLAR.

Determined to fight for her valuables, the young woman jumped from her couch, screaming, ran across the room and grappled with the burglar. She seized him and began forcing him out of the window. All the while she kept up her cries for help, and when footsteps sounded in the hallway he jumped again to the fire escape. Before descending, however, he drew a revolver from his pocket, and pointing it at Miss Irving, said:

"If you follow me, I'll shoot. You just stay right where you are."

"You can't hurt me with your old gun," replied the girl, as she started after the robber.

The latter slid down the ladder and made his escape just as the night clerk and a bell boy opened the door of Miss Irving's apartment with a pass-key.

BABY'S SMILE MAKES FRIENDS OF THE REBELS DANGEROUS JOURNEY IS TAKEN BY INFANT

Scowling Revolutionists Flirt With Girl of Four Months

ALAMEDA, March 30.—Perhaps the most remarkable journey ever made by a four-months-old American baby was that just completed by the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert B. Fields. The baby is now in Alameda with its mother, after a flight from Mexico to escape the revolutionaries. For five days the baby traveled over difficult mountain fastnesses and along dim trails, slung in a homemade hammock supported by long poles, which were carried on the shoulders of four mules drafted for the perilous journey from the peon forces at the San Vicente mines, Sinaloa, of which the baby's father is general superintendent. Sinaloa is 125 miles inland from Mazatlan.

The baby was the least in size, but not the least in importance of the little party of American refugees which arrived on the steamer Arapuco from Mazatlan, Thursday. Throughout the dangerous trip from far inland to the sea, during the long wait in fever-stricken Mazatlan and on the sea trip up from Mexico, the baby cooed and gurgled in rapt delight at the new sights and scenes she encountered. Tough little Miss Fields is an American baby, she was born in Mexico, high up in the towering Mexican mountains, where babies of all kinds are scarce and where an American baby is almost a curiosity.

GREATEST CARE TAKEN.

Despite the rough and unfavorable conditions governing the trip never was a baby better looked after. Besides the mother the baby had in her court of attendants Miss Bent Anant Victors, who was a guest of Mrs. Fields at the mines. Mrs. John Benson of Berkeley, whose husband is an American mining man associated with Fields and others in the San Vicente group, and Mrs. Forest Caldwell of Woodland, Yolo county, whose husband is superintendent of the San Vicente group. Even the revolutionists encountered smiled and flirted with the baby. The mother of the party declared that the baby was a better safeguard against molestation by rebels than were the deadly six-shooters and automatic revolvers carried ready for instant use by the American men who escorted the women from the mine to the coast.

ORDERED FROM MEXICO.

Mrs. Field Mrs. Benson and Mrs. Caldwell expected to remain in Mexico indefinitely and Miss Victors had just completed her six months' visit when

Convict From Alameda County Is Electrocuted

SAN QUENTIN, March 30.—W. A. Sage, who was serving a five-year sentence for forgery, was electrocuted in the motor room of San Quentin late last night. He touched a live wire with one hand, while his other hand was resting on a motor. Sage was committed from Alameda county in November, 1911. He came from Chicago. Sage pleaded guilty to having passed a fictitious check for $15 on A. N. Wenlander, 855 Adeline street, Oakland, October 24, 1911. He was 27 years old.

For a term of 25 years, the property on the northeast corner of Fifteenth street and Broadway, commonly known as the old Albany hotel building, a four-story structure, has been leased for a total rental of $447,300. The transaction took place between Helen McCrum, the owner, and James Crichton, lessee. The building has a frontage of 124 feet on Broadway and is 100 feet in depth. The papers were drawn up last October and were filed today.

Tribune's Music Feature Catches On With Public

THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE'S music feature, just added, has proved a decided success, just as have all other innovations of this paper. A collection of features unequalled by any publication in the great west is given with every copy of THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE sold. That is why THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE HAS THE GREATEST CIRCULATION OF ANY NEWSPAPER CIRCULATED IN ALAMEDA COUNTY. Think this over:

Each Sunday you are now getting with THE TRIBUNE a complete song, words and music, from one of the newest shows of the year. There are other features: Suzette's page of snappy comment on society; The Knave, the greatest feature ever issued with a newspaper; Lillian Russell's full page illustrated beauty talk; a colored page of the latest word from the Parisian modistes; three pages of cable news from THE TRIBUNE'S foreign bureaus; two pages of theatricals; a comic supplement for big and little kids; reviews of the latest books; sports pages written by experts; automobile and real estate sections that are unequalled.

And in addition are two of the best news services in existence—that provided by THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE'S local staff and that of the International News Service, which covers the world.

The negroes who had congregated at a church dispersed before daylight. It is believed all danger of riot is passed.

MAN CHASED BY IRON HORSE

Ex-Convict Is Caught After a Thrilling Locomotive Chase Along Mole

Armed Officer on Pilot in Pursuit; Edward Rensen Is Arrested

Impressing a Southern Pacific switch engine, and four passenger cars into service to give chase to Edward Rensen, a petty larcenist and ex-convict, Railroad Officer J. J. O'Connor rode the pilot of his strange vehicle for over a quarter of a mile eastward along the tracks of the Oakland mole in full career after the fleeing man.

The old switch engine rocked and rattled over the rails, and the whistle tooted warning to the fugitive, while O'Connor urged the engineer to put on more steam in the race.

Rensen was captured, after a quarter of a mile race along the clubhouse, running toward the shore. He surrendered, after a brief battle with O'Connor, and was taken to the Oakland police station.

The affair occurred shortly after 11 o'clock last night, following the discovery by the Southern Pacific police officer that Rensen and an accomplice were engaged in stealing lengths of lead cable in the electrical construction for insulation.

IN PRISON FOR BURGLARY.

The man captured was released from San Quentin in February, 1911, after a term of three years for burglary committed in San Francisco. He was charged with petty larceny, and a prior conviction was recorded against him, in the complaint.

Railroad Officer O'Connor discovered Rensen and an accomplice attempting to carry away 100 pounds of lead cable insulation last night. He rushed upon the two men and captured Rensen, but was forced to allow the accomplice to escape in the darkness after trying in vain to stop him by firing several shots at the fleeing man.

Rensen was captured several hundred yards from the ferry depot on the Oakland mole, and O'Connor proceeded to march his prisoner down the tracks to a tower station, from which he could telephone for assistance in taking the man to headquarters. While O'Connor was engaged in obtaining assistance to the signal tower station, Rensen suddenly turned upon him and succeeded in wrenching his arm from the officer's grasp.

OFFICER FIRES.

The fugitive rushed off down the tracks toward the mainland, pursued by the officer, who fired several shots. Rensen did not stop, and O'Connor found that the fleet-footed ex-convict was outdistancing him.

Ballied at the turn of events O'Connor was about to give up the chase when he saw a switch engine with several passenger cars approaching along the tracks, taking cars to a different part of the mole depot. O'Connor ran out in front of the engine and flagged the engineer by waving a handkerchief. Conductor L. Wilkerson, in charge of the train, came from one of the cars to find out what was the matter.

"There's a thief escaping down the tracks," shouted O'Connor. "Help me catch him."

"Sure we will," called by Wilkerson, and gave the engineer orders to go full steam ahead and open wide the throttle.

RODE ON PILOT.

O'Connor mounted the pilot of the engine and, revolver in hand, directed the chase. The headlight served to aid in locating the fleeing man.

Backing from side to side and traveling at a speed probably never before made by the old switch engine, the train went careering down the tracks. After a run of almost a quarter of a mile, Rensen came into view running along the roadbed, a hundred yards ahead of the train. When he saw the approaching engine he attempted to hide.

The headlight made a broad patch of light across the roadway almost down to the water's edge, and O'Connor, revolver in hand, leaped from the pilot and went after his man. Rensen again offered resistance, but the threat of use of the revolver quelled his spirit, and he surrendered.

Miss Sears, Up at 3 A. M., Resumes Her Long Hike

GILROY, March 30.—Miss Eleanor Sears, the Boston heiress who began a 108 mile walk from Burlingame to Del Monte yesterday, left Gilroy at 3 o'clock this morning with 45 miles of her journey still to cover. Miss Sears retired at a Gilroy hotel last night. She declared she was much refreshed by her rest as she prepared for the start. She ate a light breakfast and setting down the road with Henry Leo, the professional walker, who is accompanying her, at a four-mile-an-hour pace, while Miss Sears is slightly footsore, she declared she felt certain she could lower the record for the distance, made by Dr. William McEnery a year ago, of 75 hours and 45 minutes. A member of Miss Sears' automobile convoy, traveling ahead of the two walkers, reached Salinas at 10 o'clock. He said she expected to reach Salinas about 1 o'clock.

SALINAS, March 30.—Miss Sears arrived here at 1:45 o'clock. After lunch at a local hotel she continued the journey.

TO CONTINUE CAMPAIGN FOR SUBSCRIPTIONS FOR HOTEL

MANY YET TO BE SEEN BY WORKERS

New Hostelry Is One of This City's Most Important Improvements.

Southern Pacific Bureau of Economics Points Out Value of Structure.

The campaign for subscriptions of stock to the new Hotel Oakland furnishing fund is to be continued for several days to come. This is the decision of the hotel committee working to raise subscriptions and is made because during the last week the committee has been unable to see all the business men of Oakland and vicinity who have signified their intentions of subscribing or who have not yet been approached by the committee.

Each day of the last week has seen several new subscriptions made, indicating continuance of interest in the campaign and the willingness of prospective subscribers to take stock once they are approached. In this way funds have been raised to the neighborhood of $12,000 and the coming week will see other substantial additions to it.

IMPORTANT TO OAKLAND.

No undertaking in Oakland, unless it be that of the new city hall, has aroused the interest and discussion which the new Hotel Oakland has brought forth. The harbor development work, the construction of an adequate home for the municipal government, and the improvement of the city's schools have all been recently prominent in the minds of the public. Each and every one has been cognizant of the need of all these improvements. Yet it is doubtful if any one or all of these civic undertakings are commensurate in importance with the hotel project, a fact that has been well recognized.

As an illustration of the widespread interest in the value of the undertaking, only yesterday there was issued from the bureau of economics of the Southern Pacific railway a dispatch from Oakland dealing in large part with the hotel. The information is given out to hundreds of daily and weekly newspapers throughout the country that the city of Oakland is now and has for some time past been preparing for the Panama-Pacific International Exposition of 1915. Continuing, the publicity matter from the railroad reads:

"The preparations that are being made in this city (Oakland) to assist in the entertainment of the exposition throughs were brought to the attention of the public a week ago when prominent citizens of the state attended a luncheon within the walls of the new and magnificent Hotel Oakland."

"This new structure has cost a million and one-quarter dollars, not counting the cost of the land and the furnishings that are to be installed. It is one of the most beautiful hotels in the country, will contain 500 sleeping rooms and have the most up-to-date accommodations of any hostelry yet created. Oakland citizens realize that it is to the benefit of their city to have the exposition in San Francisco and they are co-operating with the fair committees in every possible way."

PUBLICITY FOR OAKLAND. It is publicity such as this, sent out throughout the entire country, that is securing for Oakland the attention abroad which the city's exceptional resources and advantages deserve. The perusal of such subject-matter as this in Eastern newspapers and magazines by prospective visitors to the coast, in its impressions on their minds the growing importance of Oakland and the fact that the city is ready to receive them with open arms upon their arrival. The monetary value of just such reading material as this can scarcely be estimated, but that it runs up into many figures is unquestioned.

BRINGS SUIT FOR AEROPLANE RIGHTS

The Administrator of Late Prof. Montgomery's Estate Claims Curtiss Patents.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 30.—Claiming that the late Professor John J. Montgomery of Santa Clara college was the first discoverer of certain fundamental principles now successfully used in aeroplanes by Glen H. Curtiss, and that certain rights to patents obtained by him on September 18, 1906, have been utilized by Curtiss in manufacturing his aeroplanes, suit to restrain him and to force an accounting has been filed in the United States District Court by Richard J. Montgomery, administrator of his brother's estate. Here represents the widow, Regina Clary Montgomery, and other heirs.

Rights to the patents were assigned by Mrs. Ellen Montgomery, mother of the inventor, to Richard J. Montgomery, Margaret H. and Jane B. Montgomery.

It is set forth in the complaint that since last October Glen H. Curtiss has been manufacturing machines in San Diego, which embrace the patent taken out by Professor Montgomery in 1906. The invention, they reiterate, is of a "primary and basic character embodying the fundamental principle and mode of operation on which all successful modern flying machines operate, and without the employment of which no flying machine could be successfully operated, and in respect of which the said John J. Montgomery was a pioneer in the said art."

KILLED WHILE EXPERIMENTING. Professor Montgomery was killed while experimenting with a new feature of an aeroplane he had invented near San Jose on October 17th last. He fell from a height of 50 feet in a glider, when in some accountable manner he lost control

MISS GOULD TAKES TAMALPAIS TRIP

Eastern Heiress Spends Day in Visiting Interesting Bay Points.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 30.—Miss Gould, heiress of the local Army and Navy branch of the Young Men's Christian Association, spent yesterday in sightseeing about the bay. "One of the most perfect days and perfect scenes I have ever known," said Miss Gould to Tichnor on their way back to San Francisco. So enraptured with the California climate was she that last evening she sent to her brother, George J. Gould in New York, a telegram expressing her enthusiasm over California. The Gould party will be guests of Mrs. Charles Schlacks, wife of the first vice-president of the Western Pacific, at the latter's home at lunch today. Tomorrow will be spent quietly and on Monday they intend visiting the University of California, and, if there is sufficient time, the Army and Navy Young Men's Christian Association at Vallejo. Mrs. F. M. McGee of the local Army and Navy branch of the Young Men's Christian Association accompanied Miss Gould yesterday on her trip. At Muir Woods the party was met by Will Valley and Ralston White of the Mill Valley Development Association, who pointed out the various places of interest.

BAKER HEARING STARTS QUIETLY

Reports and Figures Brought as Evidence in the Case Against Warden.

RENO, March 30.—Yesterday's hearing in the Baker-Oddie quarrel in Carson before the Prison Board was tame. The session was devoted to arguing over reports and figures. The Governor's reports attempted to prove that supplies bought in Reno were costing more than those that had been bought in Carson. The attorney also objected to questions being put to the Governor, as he contended Oddie was not on trial. Several titles took place between Attorney General Baker and the Governor's attorney. The belief is expressed that the charges brought by the Governor will not be proved to the satisfaction of Secretary of State Brodman, who is virtually the judge in the case. Baker's bookkeeper, Griffith, was on the stand when the session adjourned late in the afternoon, explaining a record. Ziff arguments arose over the Warden's report to the Governor for November, in which the road fund figured materially. Baker testified that Expert Gaston had never asked him for a book and that he did not know what books he had used for his report. Baker said those who made his reports were three bookkeepers of experience, and he believed they were correct.

FOLSOM WARDEN MAY BE CHANGED

W. H. Reilly Hands in Resignation, According to Rumor.

SACRAMENTO, March 30.—That a new warden will soon be in charge of Folsom prison is the rumor gaining ground about Sacramento today. It is being hinted that Warden W. H. Reilly has handed in his resignation. It is said that he plans to go into business in Los Angeles. For some time there is said to have been inharmonious between Reilly and the prison board, and charges of cruelty had been placed against the official. Some time ago a Federal investigation was made and Reilly was cleared. It is rumored that the resignation was asked for. President Duffy of the prison board denies that politics is behind the trouble, and states that a change in wardens will be for the good of the prison.

SUGAR TRUST CASE NEARING AN END

Parsons, Thomas, Donner and Frazier May Know Fate Today.

NEW YORK, March 30.—The fate of John E. Parsons, Washington D. C. Thomas, Arthur Donner and George H. Frazier on trial for alleged conspiracy in violation of the criminal laws of the anti-trust law, was expected to rest with the jury, some time today. Parsons is the former counsel of the American Sugar Refining Company; Thomas, former president and now chairman of the board and Arthur Donner and George H. Frazier are directors. Should a verdict of guilty be given the defendants will be subject to a maximum sentence of a year's imprisonment and a $5000 fine. Proceedings in the case opened today with the charge to the jury by Judge Hand of the United States District Court. Parsons showed no trace of his nervousness of yesterday, when he broke down and cried as his counsel summed up.

GOETHALS WOULD MAKE JUNGLE OF CANAL ZONE

WASHINGTON, March 30.—Colonel Goethals, chairman of the Isthmian Canal Commission, would drive inhabitants from the Panama Canal zone and let it grow up a jungle without clearing, sufficient to permit an enemy to congress up or foe of this government to establish a base of operations. He suggested this plan to the Senate committee on appropriations as a means of safeguarding the canal property. The plan was through the canal in August or September, 1912, said Colonel Goethals, in talking to the Senate committee.

WILL NOT MUZZLE ALAMEDA CANINES

Council Invalidates Order of Board of Health Passed at Special Meeting.

ALAMEDA, March 30.—There will be no muzzles on the dogs of Alameda unless symptoms of rabies develop in this city, according to a decision of the council in committee session last night. Councilman Hammond declared that the Southern Pacific and the Oakland Traction companies are enforcing a general quarantine and will bring no dogs into Alameda over their lines. Hammond stated that he was opposed to any muzzling of dogs. He was seconded by Councilman Walker and the application of the board of health that legislation be enacted was ordered filed. In the matter of the complaint of certain property owners in the vicinity of Lincoln avenue and Chestnut street to the effect that a building at that corner was in an insanitary condition, the health committee reported that it had investigated the property and found that it was in a sanitary condition. With regard to the agitation looking to the movement of the house back to the property line, it was reported that the city would undertake to do the work of the present to refuse the offer. D. J. McCreery, a man 87 years old, was granted a free license to engage in the bank business. His application was signed by Chief of Police Conrad. An application by residents of Central avenue, west of Webster street, that a sewer be installed in the avenue, was referred to the street committee. Complaint against a shack at Washington and Wood streets, which is declared to be in an insanitary condition and should be ordered removed, was filed by Councilman Morgan. The health committee reported that it had investigated the property and found that it was in a sanitary condition. REGISTER VOTERS IN SCHOOL HOUSES

Order of Board of Education Has Little Effect in the Enclinal City.

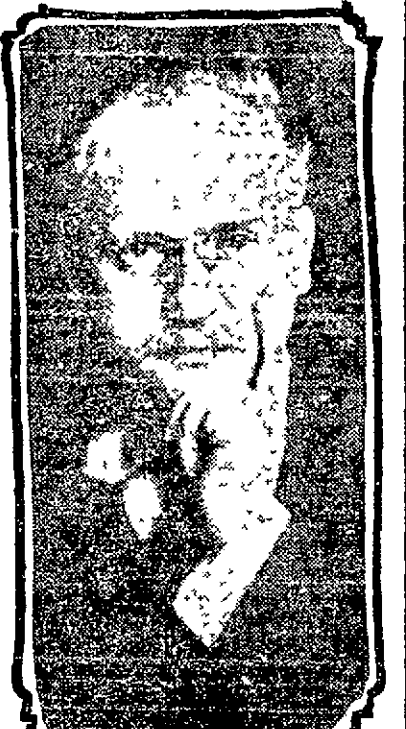

ALAMEDA, March 30.—Despite the order of the Board of Education that registration meetings should not be held in Alameda school houses the women of this city are still carrying on this work. The women claim that they were promised the school houses for registration meetings and that this permission was later revoked at a special meeting of the board. The mothers have gone ahead with the work, registering men and women at the school buildings and the board, it seems, cannot stop them. When registration of the women teachers was first under consideration it was found that many of the teachers were covetous about disclosing their ages, and for this reason announced that they would not qualify. Then the registration law was interpreted for the benefit of the fair sex, and the age provision was left out. Next the Alameda city council called a bond election between the new "ageless" registration date, and the last date for registering for the bond election, there was but a few days. Quick action was necessary. Mrs. T. H. Speedy, head of the Alameda Civic Center, interviewed President J. B. Lanktree, Director William Chapman Lum, and City Superintendent of Schools Will C. Wood in regard to having corps of women registration deputies in all of the Alameda school houses on Friday and Saturday afternoons to register teachers and such others as applied. The registration bees were advertised widely for yesterday and this afternoon. Thursday the board notified Mrs. Speedy that it had "changed its mind" and no registration would be permitted in the schools. Mrs. Speedy hunted up Director Harold Ward. Ward said he was rushing off to San Francisco but that if the board was willing he was satisfied to allow the registration. Mrs. Speedy then saw Director Lum. Dr. Lum was not at the meeting. Then Mrs. Speedy cornered President J. B. Lanktree in his office in Oakland. Other women did likewise. They got the board president cornered, and finally Lanktree advised the suffragists to go ahead and register to their heart's content.

CANDIDATES ARE NAMED BY FIFTY

Legal Number of Signatures Is Doubled in Nominating Petitions.

BERKELEY, March 30.—Petitions for the nomination of B. J. Bither for the office of commissioner, and Mrs. Annie Little Barry and Samuel Haight for the office of school director, were filed with City Clerk Walter J. Seaborn this morning. Each petition is signed by about fifty voters, the number being the number required by the charter. Of the fifty, thirty in each case are men and twenty women. The signatures are identical on the three petitions and are as follows: Prof. William F. Bader, Lionel Blodgett, A. H. Brown, Hugh M. Clark, Frank V. Cornish, K. G. Easton, Paul Elder, A. Elston, T. H. Fallon, B. D. Marx, Grege, Horace Henderson, Lewis A. Hieer, A. B. Howe, Prof. Lincoln Hutchinson, Harry James Irwin, Prof. William Cary Jones, L. H. Lewis, Alton Mackay, Charles B. Marks, C. A. Marsh, Prof. Robert Olson, Moody, A. S. Olney, Clarence W. Page, W. H. Payson, George E. Pratt, Ransom Pratt, Dr. Clifford Price, William E. Purdy, Homer Whiting, Arthur B. Wood. Wilfred S. Bangs, J. S. Bolles, Mary Stanley Boone, May L. Cheney, Julia W. Crowell, Annie Ballo Cunningham, Fannie V. Dekle, Rosetta Rich, Haight, Mary C. Hall, F. Grace Jewett, Mary W. Meahan, Agnes Claypoole, Moody, Ella L. Moody, Pomello Paroni, Etia L. Payson, Alice B. Ricker, Grace Sutton, Randal Spaulding, Mabel Weed, Bertha Wright. Today is the last permitted for registration for the recall election, registration has been especially heavy in the past week the names of more than a thousand women being added to the rolls in about ten days. In the recall election is expected to be the largest ever polled in the city, as interest in the contest is constantly growing. The resignation of B. J. Bither as president of the Chamber of Commerce, which was planned by him the day he accepted the nomination for the chamber, relieved a difficulty that was evident as soon as he became a candidate. The Chamber of Commerce is directly a non-political organization. Bither's resignation relieves the chamber of threatened embarrassment. Bither has been a member of the chamber since its organization and is expected to receive the support of the majority following. Bither was elected last year following the amalgamation of the chamber and the Board of Trade. For several terms he served as president of the chamber. He is now a member of the chamber and is expected to receive the support of the majority following. Bither was elected last year following the amalgamation of the chamber and the Board of Trade. NOTED GERMAN TO LECTURE IN STATE COLLEGE

PROF. WILHELM PASAKOWSKI

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA, March 30.—Three lectures are to be delivered in German at the university next week by Professor Wilhelm Pasakowski, director of the Academic Bureau of Information, one of the most active offices in Berlin. The dates and subjects follow: April 1, "Luther, Goethe, Bismarck"; April 2, "Das Deutsche Theater"; April 3, "Die Deutsche Presse." All the lectures will be given in room 101, California Hall. Professor Pasakowski saw long service as librarian of the Royal Library in Berlin and was appointed thereafter by the Kaiser to his present position in 1904. The following year he was named by the Prussian ministry of education to make a journey through North America in order to study American educational conditions, and in the following year he was sent by the same ministry to France, Austria, Holland, Russia, Sweden, Norway, Denmark. Professor Pasakowski's publications are chiefly in the field of philosophy. His first printed work appeared in 1890 and was entitled "Adam Smith as a Moral Philosopher." In 1892 his book on "The Significance of Theology for Ethics" appeared, and since that he has published many other books, among them "Berlin in Science and Art." In collaboration with President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia he published in 1911 a so-called "Library of the History of American Civilization." Professor Pasakowski is editor of the International Weekly Journal of Science, Art and Technical Studies.

COUNCIL OPPOSED TO BIDDER OFFER

City Officials Assert the Light Plant Is Making Splendid Showing.

ALAMEDA, March 30.—Electric light bonds in connection with the offer made by the city by S. E. Biddle, vice-president and manager of the Citizens Bank, were the chief topics of discussion at the meeting of the committee of the whole of the city council last night. The proposition was represented by himself and C. E. Adams. Facts and figures were submitted on the cost of buying power and manufacturing it leasing out the light plant and operating it by the city as heretofore. Adams stated that he thought the plan as proposed by Biddle was one that would benefit the city. He was questioned in this by Secretary Goldsworthy of the electric commission and several of the members of the council. Goldsworthy declared that the only money needed for the entire street lighting expenses of the city for which the taxpayers had to go down into their pockets was $3331.25, last year, this being the only amount appropriated in addition to the earnings of the plant through commercial light and power, to conduct the enterprise. Goldsworthy, in answer to questions submitted by the council, stated that under the Biddle proposition the city would have to raise at least $25,000 a year to run the street and public building lights. Briefly the proposition made by Biddle is one to take over the light plant and operate it for the city. For this purpose he proposes to pay into a sinking fund to be used for maintenance of the plant a sum equal to eight per cent of the gross earnings of the plant, and to the city for street and public lighting at the rate of 2 1/2 cents per kilowatt, and to turn the plant over to the city at the end of 10 years in good condition, reserving the provision that any repairs or additions made by him must be paid for by the city upon its return to the city. Biddle offers to reduce the cost of commercial lighting from seven cents to six cents. The entire profits from the plant, less the eight per cent provision are to go to the operator. EARNING $50,000 YEARLY. Councilman Hammond stated that the plant is earning $50,000 a year to the city and that he did not see where the proposition was one that could be considered as being of benefit to the city. The earning capacity of the plant, he said, is increasing at the rate of $10,000 a year and the earnings last year were $50,000. He also stated that the plant is earning $50,000 a year, which amount would have to be provided out of the tax budget. Hammond reported that an offer had been made to the city by Wynn Meredith to purchase the plant and pay $500,000. Mayor Norwag expressed surprise when he stated that the offer had been made to the city through him to buy the plant for $800,000. Superintendent Kahn of the light plant stated that in the event of lease being entered into or an agreement to buy current made, the cost to the city for electric lighting alone will be $14,000. Kahn bases his figures on the 3500 electric lamps exclusive of arc lighting, which each burns 80 watts, eight hours a day, 365 days a year at 2 1/2 cents per kilowatt, and would be only one item of expense to the city for public lighting. The matter was finally referred to the public utilities committee.

MADIE TELLS OF FIGHTING FROST

First Cold Snap Prediction Met With Ridicule and Loss to Orchardists.

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA, March 30.—Professor Alexander G. McAdie, District Forecaster of the United States Weather Bureau at San Francisco, honorary lecturer on meteorology at the University of California, spoke here yesterday under the auspices of the department of geology on "Frost and Frost Protection." Madie said in part: "In 1885 the San Francisco office of the weather bureau first made a forecast of frost for the citrus belt. At that time the growers in the region ridiculed the idea, as the day on which the forecast was made was delightfully warm. The frost occurred as forecasted, and half the crop was lost. In 1911 a very heavy frost occurred on Christmas night, but the damage was small because a large majority of the growers had learned to heed the frost forecasts of the weather bureau and had made the necessary preparations to fight frost successfully when warned in time. "Frost may be kept from trees and plants by a variety of means. The cooling of the air may be prevented by holding in the heat of the earth by cover or cloud of vapor or by the presence of water in the air, which makes cooling of the air much more difficult, or by keeping the air in motion so that no part of it may become excessively cold, or by actually heating the air. At first coal was burned in wire baskets to heat the air in the groves above the danger point. Coal has now been superseded by oil, but heating is still a common means of frost prevention. There are also methods of adding water to the air, such as burning damp straw in the orchards."

MOTHER REGAINS KIDNAPED YOUTH

Mrs. Alice D. Lawrence Cuts with Husband; Finds Child on Ranch.

MARTINEZ, March 30.—Mrs. Alice D. Lawrence of Chicago, leader of a mysterious religious cult which is supposed to be a branch of Evelyn Arthur See's famous "Absolute Life," known as "The Happiness Circle," appeared suddenly at Martinez yesterday and succeeded in obtaining her husband, George B. Lawrence, in gaining possession of her ten-year-old boy, for whom she has been searching for a year. The boy had been placed in the custody of Miss Ella Ellegren, a cook on the George McNear ranch near Martinez, who had been a nurse for the boy since babyhood. When the mother took possession of the child he cried "Save me, save me from Mama, I don't want to go with her." The boy's name is George Lee Lawrence, and he was stolen from Chicago on January 11, 1911 by his elder brother Raymond, who acted for the father, who has been living secretly in San Francisco. He is under indictment in Chicago for wife abandonment and the son is under indictment for kidnapping. Instructions have been telephoned by A. C. Keane, Lawrence's lawyer, asking Sheriff Voala to keep a close watch on Mrs. Lawrence so that she will not be able to get the child out of the state until the legal tangle is unraveled. Mrs. Lawrence, who belongs to "The Happiness Circle," and who composed principally of about 100 divorced women, declares that she will never give her husband his freedom by divorce. "Some day," she said, "God will touch his heart and send him back to me."

ALBANY POLITICS FAIRLY SIZZLING

Charges and Counter-Charges Marking Progress of the Campaign.

ALBANY, March 30.—Local politics was warmer with every rising sun. Charges of near-graft against the present administration by the Good Government Club have been answered today by members of the administration with the statement that the club is merely a political organization planned to foster the campaign of Frank J. Roberts, former mayor, who would be returned to that position. The election is to be held April 8, and mass meetings are to be held on election dates up to that time by both sides. The Good Government machine, besides supporting Roberts, is backing R. L. Davis and G. F. Thompson for the board of trustees and Rollin F. Gould for city clerk. The trustee candidates are opposed by the incumbents of the offices, E. D. Cushing, A. P. Harscom and A. L. Lindquist, and Gould by George Nickerson.

BERKELEY VOTERS 13,000 IN NUMBER

Estimated Eighty Per Cent of the Electors Are Republicans.

BERKELEY, March 30.—In the netlists taken of Berkeley voters women are eligible to vote in Berkeley at the coming elections, according to the estimates of the county clerk's office. Of these approximately 4480 are women and 8560 are men. Although the complexion politically of the voters is difficult to arrive at until the election, it is estimated that about 80 per cent of those registered are Republicans, 15 per cent Democrats and five per cent Socialists. This estimate is based upon the returns of several Berkeley registration deputies. The registration is about 5000 in advance of that of two years ago. There were then 8100 voters.

WEDDING GOWN MUST GO WHEN DUTY CALLS

PORTLAND, March 30.—Duty is responsible for a Portland young woman wedding gown which she has decided to sacrifice to duty at the altar. The outfit is to be disposed of at public auction at the custom house because she refuses to pay the duty on it. The young woman formerly lived in Canada, where she was married two years ago. The dress was one of the treasures she brought along when she and her husband decided to move to the Rose City. Recently her sister in Canada was married and to save her the expense of buying an expensive trousseau the Portland young woman decided to send her the dress which she herself had worn when wedded. After the sister in the north got through with the dress she sent it on the return trip to the United States. On its arrival at the custom house its value was appraised and the owner was notified to call and get it or pay the tariff charges. She deemed the rate exorbitant and decided to sacrifice the property. It is expected lively bidding will be made for the dress when it is placed on sale at auction in the basement of the custom house. There is a big quantity of other goods, which have accumulated in the last three months, among them an assortment of Oriental wares, R. F. Barnes, deputy collector of customs, will wield the hammer.

Oppose Creation of Department of Health

Former Governor Bates and Two Physicians Appear Before Senate Committee.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—Former Governor L. H. Bates of Massachusetts and two physicians appeared before the Senate public health committee today, opposed the creation of a national department of health. He declared that the marine hospital and public health service was the most powerful health department in the world, and as long as it was in existence there was no need for a department of health. Drs. Frederick A. Banting and Paul A. Hirsch of New York, representing the League of Medical Freedom, also spoke in opposition to the bill.

ARRAIGNMENT SET FOR NEXT TUESDAY

Young Boorman Is Released on $3000 Bonds; Denies He Is Highwayman.

ALAMEDA, March 30.—Warren Boorman, a bank clerk accused by Harry Richardson, foreman of the Western Dairy company, of holding him up at the point of a pistol, will appear in court for arraignment next Tuesday morning at 2 o'clock. Boorman is at liberty on $3000 bonds furnished last Wednesday by A. A. Stanford and M. E. Owsen. Richardson was prepared to swear to a complaint charging highway robbery, but on the advice of City Attorney A. F. St. Sure the charge was reduced to assault with intent to commit robbery. So far Boorman, beyond denying that he held up Richardson, has refused to make any statement. His father and attorney are the only two he has talked to about the case. They both state that the youth simply denies that he is guilty. Richardson says that he is willing to swear that the man who held him up wore a coat and hat and had a pistol exactly corresponding to the coat and pistol found on Boorman at the time of his arrest.

This is the first professional debut of the talented young woman and it will be followed by many other recitals as Miss Kellogg intends to make this her life work.

SEEING SNAKES IS WILL CONTEST FIGURE

BUFFALO N. Y. Match 30.—Whether "chronic alcoholic dementia" can cause a person to imagine he sees snakes was warmly discussed before Justice Hooker in the Supreme Court in the trial of the action brought by Clara G. Reiman against Godfrey M. Frohe, executor, for the testing of the will of her late father, Matthias Reiman, a wealthy carriage-maker. Half a dozen prominent physicians were called to the stand to testify that excessive drinking had caused the man to lose full possession of his faculties previous to his making the will. "Mr. Reiman had chronic alcoholic dementia," testified Dr. James A. Gardner. "That is a form of insanity."

A Strange Subject for Executive Clemency.

George Figueroa, the Los Angeles wife-murderer, was not executed yesterday because Governor Johnson granted him a thirty days' reprieve at the last moment. Whether he will commute Figueroa's sentence to imprisonment for life remains to be seen. It is said that 25,000 members of the Anti-Capital Punishment League have petitioned for a commutation of sentence.

If there ever was a criminal who deserved to pay the death penalty that man is George Figueroa. The murder of his young wife was not only shockingly brutal, but the motive for the crime adds a darker hue to the atrocity. Figueroa brought into his home the boon companion of a drunken carouse and demanded that his bride of a month submit to the embraces of his loafer friend. Because she refused to comply with this depraved request, Figueroa savagely beat his girl-wife, and when her aunt, who was called to the scene by the screams of her niece, attempted to interfere, Figueroa threw her out of the house.

His wife still refusing to submit to the degradation her beast of husband tried to force upon her, he shot her down on her own hearthstone, a martyr to her own chastity.

This is the creature Governor Johnson has interposed his constitutional authority to save from the gallows. The man has no redeeming quality and his crime was without an extenuating circumstance unless the fact that Figueroa was steeped in liquor when he committed it can be termed an extenuating circumstance. It is extraordinary that the Governor should have selected this depraved wretch as a subject for executive clemency. It is strange that people who are sincerely opposed to the death penalty should have chosen Figueroa's case as one on which to make an issue. But the vile criminal, the more attractive as an object of sympathy is he for some people, many of whom are neither fools nor evil-minded. A crime of peculiar atrocity seems to appeal to the good offices of a certain class of sentimentalists, who would have no sympathy with an ordinary criminal and who would not give a second thought to a poor devil that bad company and improvidence had led to commit some venial offense.

Figueroa not only shed in wanton brutality the blood of an innocent and defenseless woman, but he tried to defile his own marriage bed, to prostitute his wife ere yet the honeymoon had waned. Neither revenge nor cupidity prompted the cowardly atrocity. He slew his wife because she would not dishonor herself and her marriage vow at the command of a husband whose instincts were baser than those of the ordinary beast of the field. Even the four-footed beast will protect his mate. Yet Governor Johnson picked out this depraved, blood-stained creature as an object for executive clemency.

The Missouri Legislature has added to the gaiety of the nation and the humor of politics by passing a law prohibiting the use of public combs and brushes in hotels and sleeping cars. Why the use of soap was not also prohibited is not explained. With the average Missourian combs are a necessity, but soap is a symbol of political degeneracy.

Colonel Roosevelt says let the people rule, but apparently he does not believe women are people. His idea is that they are just mothers.

Variety is the spice of life, also of politics. The Fresno Republican is furnishing variety in abundance for this campaign. Its principal proprietor is a candidate for delegate on the Taft ticket, the editor is a candidate for delegate on the Roosevelt ticket, and the business manager is circulating a La Follette petition. Can you beat it? Apparently our Fresno contemporary proposes to establish a friendly connection with all the candidates for President.

Now that San Francisco voted public improvement bonds by a majority of ten to one, she should complete the good work by giving Taft a majority equally as big.

Mexicanizing the Republican Party.

Senator Dixon, Roosevelt's campaign manager, closes a telegram to Governor Johnson with this significant statement: "We are going to nominate Roosevelt at Chicago. This is certain."

It is certain that Roosevelt cannot be nominated in the regular Republican convention. Who, then, will nominate him? Will a rump convention be called to place the Oyster Bay candidate in nomination? Dixon does not say the Republican convention will nominate Roosevelt. He says we will nominate him. As this statement follows an assertion that the Roosevelt delegates were defeated in New York, Indiana and other States by fraud and chicanery, the logical inference is that the Rooseveltists will hold a convention of their own and put a ticket in the field which they will claim to represent the people if not the Republican voters.

The present situation in the Republican party is analogous to the situation in the Democratic party in 1848, when Lewis Cass was nominated for President over Martin Van Buren. After his defeat in the Democratic National Convention, Van Buren accepted a nomination at the hands of the Free Soil Democrats. He polled only a small vote at the succeeding election, but he drew enough votes away from Cass in the pivotal States to give the election to General Zachary Taylor, the Whig candidate.

Is Roosevelt preparing to play the part that Van Buren played in 1848? Senator Dixon's statement conveys that impression. Colonel Roosevelt's own utterances suggest that he will deny the validity of the regular Republican convention and set up the claim that his rump organization represents the Republican party. If that is his program he will deny that he is a bolter and assert that he is the regular Republican nominee.

It is clear that he has made up his mind to rule or ruin. He is working now to defeat Taft, for he is too shrewd a politician not to know that he has no chance of getting the regular Republican nomination and cannot be elected as the nominee of a rump convention. Roosevelt is probably looking ahead to 1916, hoping to win the Presidency then by Mexicanizing the Republican party in this campaign. He would rather destroy the Republican party than see Taft re-elected. Hence the main object of the Roosevelt campaign from now on is assisting to elect a Democratic President.

If Battle Bob reads the San Francisco Bulletin he will learn that he is an undesirable person and a side-line striker for Taft. Very soon every member of the Jobchasers' Union will be saying that Johnson forsok the pompous statesman because he discovered that he was secretly helping The Interests to elect Taft. The fun is getting to be hilarious.

Where, oh where is that hat? It is not in the ring. Neither is the Colonel, and the shouting indicates that the hat has been lost entirely. And it was the Colonel's war beaver, too.

THE JUDICIAL RECALL

—WASHINGTON STAR.

New York and the Pork Barrel.

"Pork barrel legislation" is a favorite theme for denunciation on the part of the New York journals, but they are united in asking Congress to appropriate $34,500,000 for the improvement of New York harbor. The expenditure for government buildings in New York has reached fabulous proportions. More money has been spent in improving New York harbor than on all the other harbors of the country put together. New York wants everything. New York does not want any other Atlantic port improved. Wall street, being interested only in railroads and in forcing the commerce of the west to pass through New York, is opposed to the Lake-to-the-Mississippi canal. Wall street objects to improving waterways that will transport produce and merchandise to tidewater at points other than New York. That is why the newspapers of the metropolis are forever inveighing against appropriations for the improvement of other harbors and of rivers which do not directly contribute to the commerce of New York. Of course nearly every river and harbor bill contains items which should be eliminated, but such items are made the object of attack not because they are a waste of public money, but because New York wishes to prevent the improvement of other harbors. The same motive prompts the ceaseless attacks on public building bills. The same spirit of selfishness is leading the effort to close all the mints in the country save the one at Philadelphia. The district lying between Boston and Hampton Roads wants all the navy yards, all the gun plants and all the naval depots. That district now has the National Military School, the Naval Academy, the War College, the big gun foundries and other military facilities calling for the expenditure of public money. The fleets rendezvous and are provisioned there, and the bulk of the nation's revenue is expended there. Yet the residents of that district complain because small appropriations are asked for erecting public buildings in comparatively small places in Wyoming, Utah and Texas. But they never tell the reasons why buildings in such places are required. The buildings may not be absolutely necessary, but there is a reason for asking for them aside from the desire to get a slice of pork.

Apparently Colonel Roosevelt proposes to recall the nomination for President if it does not go his way.

$100,000,000 FOR RAILROADS

While railroad expansion in the United States shows no sign of recovering from the stroke of paralysis caused by unwise legislation, just over the line in Canada an unparalleled rate of development is under way. As described by the United States consul at Winnipeg, this year's construction of western Canada promises to be the greatest development work in any country during a given time. The three railway systems controlling the lines in that section contemplate an outlay of $100,000,000 in tapping new territory and the betterment of terminals. They are practically forced by the pressure for transportation facilities to do their utmost, and it is doubted that even with this vast extension the roads will be able to handle this year. Warned by the unheeded grain blockade existing on their lines today, largely owing to lack of trucks and equipment for moving last year's crops, the companies see the absolute necessity of gridironing their territory in every direction in Alberta and Saskatchewan and providing new outlets both to the Atlantic and Pacific oceans. Rapid as the extension of these three systems has been in recent years, the inflow of homeseekers keeps the country ahead of traffic facilities. The Canadian Pacific's earnings last year showed a phenomenal increase in both gross and net, far surpassing anything done by the trunk lines traversing the American side of the boundary. The Canadian government is lending aid to this building of a line from the wheat country to a point on Hudson Bay, a daring enterprise, which capitalists gave ear to some years ago, but which they put aside as a doubtful investment. The Canadian government is also reaching out on this side with a longer arm than ever, not in railroad operation, but in offering inducements to more of our farmers to migrate to western Canada. It is stated in an official document just issued at Ottawa that the scope of campaign has been enlarged to include still more territory in the canvass than was covered last year, when, for the first time, the eastern states were invaded and thousands induced to join the rush for Alberta and Saskatchewan. Doubtless the inroads on the most desirable class of our citizens will be heavier than ever, the liberal spirit displayed by the Canadians making the new prospect too attractive to be resisted. Meanwhile, what are we doing to stop the leak? Why, having persuaded ourselves that we ought to stop the natural and sensible thing, we obstinately adhere to the worst policy any people-thinking person sees that we are standing in our own light as never before in history, and everybody should know that persistence in the policy of folly means that we shall suffer an irreparable loss.—Washington Post.

BLOW TO BOHEMIA

At a recent trial in the Court of Special Sessions a dealer in poultry, charged with selling chickens too advanced in decomposition to be either safe or palatable eating, drew in his own defense a distinction which must have come as a far to New York's numerous and enthusiastic cabaret and table d'hôte public. The purveyor in question admitted that the birds were not of the best quality, but he added, "they were good enough for one certain class of trade—they were all right for the ordinary table d'hôte places."

The public, which has found joy in pursuing the table d'hôte into its hundreds of lairs—French, Italian, German, Greek, Armenian, Hungarian, Polish, Yiddish, Bohemian, Russian, Spanish or even plain American—has been pretty steadfast in casting an eye of faith and charity on the vantage provided for its sustenance and on the labels of the bottles discharging a fluid which it was courteous to assume was wine because it happened to run yellow or red. It has feasted with resignation on spaghetti which no Neapolitan would ever recognize as such and on fillet Chateaubriand, which was only an alias for chunk steak. It has drunk the bargain counter "red ink" included in the price of the dinner, and by due exercise of auto-suggestion has found its bouquet endurable. If not gratifying, all these offerings have been eked over now and then by the pale coat of thought. But to doubt the chicken, the bright ray of hope in every darkened situation, was to bring down the whole table d'hôte structure with a crash. With chicken under suspicion there could no longer be an inner sanctuary where unalloyed confidence could safely hide.

The Special Sessions judge is said to have become indignant at the heartless classification which smashed the table d'hôte frequenter's last castle of dreams. He said that any one who had the idea that any but real chickens were good enough for the 30 and 40 cent dinner places, wine included, ought to be sent to jail. That is the most "gracious word" which the table d'hôte public has heard for years. Let it take heart again. Some day all its menus will be Willyzed and it will drink real grape juice or none at all. Chicken that should be sent to the embalmer will no longer challenge the gay Bohemian in a struggle for existence. Yet maybe even then the safeguarded table d'hôte of the future will look back to the old laissez faire system of kitchen economics with mild regret.

UGANDA'S ROYAL SUICIDES

Some of the curious customs of a pastoral people of Uganda, known as the Banyara, are told by Rev. John Hoscoe. He said that when once a king was enthroned his person became sacred and his food was restricted to milk and beef from a sacred herd of cows, which were kept apart from other cows. The Banyara monarch never allowed himself to grow old or his faculties to become impaired. When he thought he was going to be seriously ill he called a council, arranged the state affairs with the principal chiefs without giving them any reason for thinking that he was about to die and dismissed them to carry out his instructions.

Then he returned to his private house and summoned his chief wife and ordered her to bring a cup of poison. He drank the contents and in a few minutes was dead. The widow thereupon called one or two of the principal chiefs, who prepared the body for burial. For as long as possible the death was kept secret. Each day the milk and beef were brought to the royal residence and inquirers were informed that the king was suffering from an indisposition which required him to rest.

In the meantime the chiefs were engaged in making private arrangements to guard the body and protect the sacred herds of cattle during the wars which would follow on the announcement of the death. When the news leaked out the sons of the dead man fought among themselves, brother killing brother. The survivor became king and attended his father's funeral. At the ceremony several of the widows of the deceased king were clubbed to death, as were the women and the cook. Other widows took poison. All the bodies were placed in the grave, the idea being that their ghosts should minister to the ghost of the king in the next world. When the last king came to the throne the country was a British protectorate.

According to the medicine man, the "god" was displeased and indicated that the first person seen coming along a particular road should be slain over the drum in which human blood was wont to be poured at each coronation. That unfortunate person happened to be a tax gatherer, an Englishman, who was accordingly decapitated. The "medicine man" was arrested, but the judge liberated him with a caution, taking the view that he acted out of ignorance. The drum, however, was brought by the speaker to England.

20 YEARS AGO IN OAKLAND

"God's Requirements" was the subject of a special sermon preached this afternoon at the First Presbyterian Church by Rev. C. S. Nash, president of the Pacific Theological Seminary.

Dr. D. A. Danziger, a well known Jewish divine, was the speaker this afternoon at the Oakland synagogue.

The Camera Club opened its annual exhibition of photographs last night in the Assembly Hall. A number of slides donated by the London Lantern Society were also shown. Joseph Grismer and Phoebe Davis opened in Oakland tonight with "Beacon Lights," their new play. They will also present several other attractions during their week here. Sydney Drew is announced as the next attraction.

The members of Henry Clay Club No. 33 of the Lyceum League of America this evening met to debate on the proposed bond issue. The affair will be held in Hamilton Hall and will be attended by a large number of young folk.

Mrs. Major Kyle spoke last night at a meeting in the First Presbyterian Church, telling of the needs of the Rescue Home. Elder N. W. Winton presided at the meeting.

That Oakland needs a conservatory of music was the statement made last night by Attorney A. A. Moore, at a meeting in Washington Hall. Mr. Moore made this remark in connection with his arguments for the bond issue, and also advocated open air-concerts and proposed an art gallery for the city.

A new law, providing a penalty for operating garbage wagons after noon and before six in the afternoon, was passed to print by the city council, and will come up for final adoption shortly. It was passed on the complaint of many citizens that the garbage wagons in the streets in the afternoon were a nuisance.

WOMAN JAILED TO COOL TEMPER

Five Hours Behind the Bars Prove Great to Restore Good Nature.

Mrs. Minnie Ellenburger said to have driven her husband, Eckhart, to seek relief in the divorce court, followed him there keeping up her tirade against him the court and his attorney, until Superior Judge Waste found it necessary to sentence her to five hours in the county jail late yesterday so that her temper might have a chance to cool. She went into seclusion shortly after 3 o'clock and spent the interval in sleep. Giving the name of Jane Doe, she was assigned to a cell on the female department in charge of Matron White. Shortly before 9 o'clock when she emerged, her temper had considerably changed.

Mrs. Ellenburger had cited her husband into court to find out why he refused to pay her $15 per month alimony, pending his suit for divorce, commenced last October. He said that he had been out of employment for several months and had recently invested in a cheap suit of clothes, and had not paid his attorney. His wife commenced to abuse him and his attorney, E. J. Sutton, until the court admonished her not to speak until she was spoken to. Her attorney, Phil M. Carey, also cautioned her, but in spite of all protests she insisted on having her say even after the court had threatened her with imprisonment. "I don't care if I go to jail," she said. She went.

PROBATION FOR FORMER CONVICT

Companions Who Committed Burglary Save Adam Stroth From Jail Term.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 30.—Adam Stroth who has already served more than half his life in San Quentin and who, while acting as a good samaritan was arrested and charged with burglary, was admitted to five years' probation, Joseph Sullivan, alias James Orr, and James Wilson, alias James Loder, each of whom has served terms in San Quentin and Folsom were sentenced to three years each in Folsom.

The circumstances of Stroth's arrest so impressed the court, although he is a third offender technically, he was released. Stroth was serving a long term in prison when he was admitted to probation because of his excellent record and was at work when Sullivan and Wilson were released. They went to him personally and he took them to his room and cared for them, begging them, however, not to commit crime.

Disregarding his plea they broke into the store of John Young, 1386 Valencia street and stole a quantity of furs which they took home. Stroth was heartbroken but was finally prevailed upon to dispose of the plunder and the three were arrested. Today both of Stroth's companions requested that he be released, explained that he had really been in the burglary and he was turned over to Probation Officer Nichols. Sullivan and Wilson were sent back to the prison which has been their home for nearly a score of years.

CHILDREN DO NOT 'RAG' SHE SAYS

Tells of Work at Meeting of the Oakland Social Settlement.

That the boys and girls of the Oakland Social Settlement have no interest in the latest dance called "The Rag," was the declaration made yesterday afternoon by Miss Pearl Bank of Berkeley, who has charge of the folk and social dancing at that institution. Her opinion regarding the attitude of the young people toward dancing was expressed at the annual meeting of the members of the organization held in the club house, Third and Linden streets.

"The young folks love music," said Miss Bank, "with all the ardor of the Latin race. They love good times and need them. There is very little silliness or flitting among them, and we see our boys growing more gentlemanly and our girls more sweet and womanly from year to year. They have not as yet been fascinated by the rag dances."

The following board of directors was elected for the ensuing year upon the report of the nominating committee:

Mrs. S. T. Alexander, Miss Mary Alexander, Miss W. H. Chickering, Mrs. John F. Farrell, Mrs. C. H. Gorrill, Mrs. Murray Johnson, Miss Ethel Moore, Mrs. C. S. Player, Mrs. Lewis Tashelra, Mrs. A. Vandergilt, and Miss Emma R. Wellman. The board of managers includes Mrs. A. W. Palmer, Miss Ruth Thadde, Miss Mabel Gray and Miss Janet Haught.

'PHONE CASE GOES OVER FIVE DAYS

Injunction Proceedings Will Be Taken Up Again Next Wednesday.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 30.—The injunction proceedings restraining the Pacific Telephone company and the Bay Cities Telephone company from proceeding with their merger, were continued in Judge Lawlor's court today until next Wednesday. Attorneys Johnson, Easton and Crist appeared in court representing O. L. Scott, the plaintiff, who obtained a temporary injunction from Judge Lawlor last Saturday.

It was announced that the city attorney had rendered an opinion to the supervisors outlining possible legal proceedings against the merger. Council would consent to the matter being put over.

Attorney Johnson stated that in reference to the city attorney he thought no steps would be taken until it was determined definitely as to what the supervisors would do as it would perhaps be better for the city to take legal steps instead of a private citizen. Attorneys E. S. and H. D. Pillsbury appeared as counsel for the telephone interests.

HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS WIN FAST BOAT RACE

Over a course, two-fifths of a mile in length, the girls of the Berkeley High school defeated a picked crew of University of California co-eds in the first annual boat race yesterday afternoon on Lake Merritt. They won by a boat's length. Despite the fact that the variety of the race was the first time that the girls have won honors as athletes and swimmers, the high school company proved that they were many clever rowers as well as swimmers in the team.

Tom Kendall, the veteran boatman at Lake Merritt, trained the girls of the Berkeley high who created him for their victory. The judges were Miss Rachel Brockman, G. N. Brink, principal of the Berkeley high school and Rev. Richard Vaughn, pastor of the First Baptist church of Berkeley.

The members of the Berkeley high school crew were: Miss Ramona Marks, coxswain; Miss Elsie Liddell, bow, and Miss Irma Russell, stroke. The university crew was Miss Gladys Ford, coxswain; Miss Lyda Sheffield, bow, and Miss Nina Sheffield, stroke.

GING DOY TELLS HIS TALE OF MONEY WOE

Runaway Boy Declares He Is Willing to Stick to His Work.

Culprits of various colors and still more various nationalities made the regular Friday afternoon session of the Juvenile Court yesterday before Judge Ogden kaleidoscopic in tone. Two youngsters of ebony hue, one Chinaman and several other boys and girls had been doing things they hadn't ought to and were in court to take the consequences.

The two little negro boys, one 10 years old, the other 12, no relation, had both been guilty of disobedience and general incorrigibility. In both cases the fathers of the boys had deserted the families, leaving the two mothers obliged to work and the boys, free of discipline throughout the day, at liberty to do as they pleased. The boys were added in both cases to their petty depredations, and for both boys the order of the court was confinement in various institutions.

As for the Chinese, Mr. Ging Doy, smiling, round-faced and wide-eyed, his presence in court was required to see why he had not paid for his son, known as Joe Henderson, sent to an institution and so far largely supported by the court.

"I have no money, cannot pay for boy," was all the court could get out of the Oriental. "I'm not now in business, have rheumatism, cannot work," so the court had to go on for another month carrying the responsibility for the father's debts.

ALLEGED RUNAWAY

Sam Sothorn, age 17 years, alleged runaway from Spokane, was the next subject of inquiry of the court. Sam was arrested in Oakland, after beating his way from Portland. He denied, however, that he had run away, declaring that he had told his mother he was going to Portland to work, and when he could not find it there, he came on down the coast.

"I'm willing to work, Judge," Sam declared to the court, which took his word as truth and will try to get that work for him.

Another runaway was Harry Cowper, whose last escapade took him away for nearly a year, this in spite of the fact that the boy is a cripple and admitted that to work any length of time made his deformed hip hurt. Harry was before Judge Ogden a week ago and appeared again yesterday to have his case finally settled.

"I'm tired of running," Harry told the court a week ago. "If I had a chance I'd stay at home and go to school, as my father wants me to." The seven days that passed between the hearing at least sent Harry to school, where he has enrolled for a business course and has been showing such aptitude for his studies that once more the court accepted the boy's own judgment of what he should do and let him remain at home on probation.

ON PLEASURE JAUNT

Perry Kelly, one more runaway, representative of the Emerald Isle by name, ran away on a pleasure jaunt, simply because he was tired of the weary round of work and had no fun in his middle teens. Perry has had to help support his mother while his father has been in the county jail on a conviction of failure to provide. So when the boy had no more money and some money from some of his companions, he did it and went off to Fresno just for the trip. He rode on the cars and had a generally good time until the money ran out, and then the weary round of work had to be begun all over again.

"The court has no condemnation for a boy who has been robbed of the fun of boyhood, forced to fit in a groove and become a money-earning machine."

Such was the judgment of the court in the matter, and in order to give Perry a bit more of the fun of boys and their lack of responsibility, the court ordered his commitment to the Boys' and Girls' Aid.

Mrs. Quigley pointed out Lee Jeffrey of 1537 Tenth avenue, but all of the other judges said that they had not heard anything wrong. Mrs. Quigley was satisfied afterwards not to have Jeffrey arrested.

GOSSIP FROM SAN FRANCISCO WEEKLIES

Never Discuss Their Separation

That worthy institution, the Nursery for Homeless Children, has been again appealing to the aid of the public, which reminds me that it lost one of its most enterprising benefactors when Mrs. Herbert Law took up her residence in Los Angeles. Mrs. Law has been greatly missed not only by her associates in the directory of the Home but by her many friends in this city to whom she had endeared herself by her gentle manners and her sweet nature. For the last two years Mrs. Law has been living in seclusion in Los Angeles devoting herself entirely to the education of her daughter, now a girl of seventeen, and steadfastly refusing to participate in any kind of social gaiety. I saw her recently and thought her quite the prettiest woman I had seen in all the citrus belt. She wore a chic dark blue tulle gown and chiffon blouse, a pretty black straw hat with a tacing of steel blue the color of her thoughtful eyes; and in spite of the shade of sadness on her pretty face she looked not more than twenty-five. Herbert Law, the clever financier, since his separation from his wife, spends as much time in Europe as in San Francisco. The separation is never discussed by either Mr. or Mrs. Law, but both speak of each other in the most friendly and affectionate terms, a circumstance that gives their friends the impression that as their differences were of the most inconsequential nature and as they still love each other the blow abate that Herbert Law has built for himself on the crest of Nob Hill will soon be transformed into a home for the dearest wife he could find in all the world—his wife for more than twenty years.—Town Talk.

Peter Martin Goes to Paris

At length and at last—Peter Martin is going to join his family, which consists of a wife and a son, a gorgeous boy, in Paris. Thereby hangs a tale. Peter leaves next week, and is doing straight, as the crowd flies (no intention meant to refer to Peter as a crow), to that dear Paris where the misuses has been living in impatient contentment for these many months. And Peter is going to tell her, the Misuse, as soon as the transports of conjugal greetings are over, of all the ugly stories he has been denying since she shook the dust of San Francisco from her shapely feet and went to that dear Paris. First of all, there was that hydra-headed and detestably persistent rumor that they were separated for all time and eternity; that she had an affinity, and that he had a whole staff of suitors. Of course that is all quashed now, he will say, in the privacy of their boudoir, but there still remains that little tale that will not be still, that she ran away to Paris against his wishes, and that to get the wherewithal to travel, she purloined some of the choicest stock of the Martin estate and sold it in the San Francisco bourse for about two-thirds of its par value. The story relates that Peter did not learn of the sale of the stock until his handsome wife was safely ensconced in her apartment in the Rue de Bohème. The unkindness of the gossip says that Peter was on the point of prosecuting the Misuse, but this the family indignantly denies. In fact, the Martins deny the whole episode. Peter will tell her how loyal his mother was to her absent daughter-in-law, and how all the family, to the "ninth" ramification, arose as one man to defend her fame.—News Letter.

Old Friends and Old Hospitality

Great was the rejoicing among the old friends of Mrs. John Barton when it was learned that she and her daughter, Grace (now Mrs. Cuyler) have made all arrangements to sail from Paris for Alameda on or about April 1, and that they would, in all probability, again occupy the old Barton mansion at Central avenue and Broadway. Mrs. Barton, who, before her marriage was Isabella Barton, is a member of one of California's oldest families. For many years she made her home in Alameda, but for some time past she has resided in the Champs Elysees, Paris. The old Barton residence in Alameda is one of the largest residence properties in that city. During the time Mrs. Barton has been abroad, it was used as a fashionable private school and it has been rumored on many occasions that the spacious grounds were to be subdivided and sold off, but now since Mrs. Barton has decided to make her home here again, the property is being renovated and the grounds, which resemble a huge park, put in artistic shape again.—Oakland Observer.

The Mintzer Unpleasantness

Many of the friends of the late Mrs. William Mintzer were unaware that she had a daughter by a former marriage until the latter appeared in the Superior Court as contestant of her mother's will. She was Miss Eugenia Ware, and some years ago married Walter Lee of Napa county. After her mother's marriage to Mintzer the two were estranged, as is evidenced by the petition of Mrs. Lee returned forth that her mother was unduly influenced by her second husband in disposing of her property. Mrs. Mintzer was married to Ware when she was but a young girl, and her marriage to William Mintzer, the lawyer, took place twenty years ago. It was a happy union, but by only a few months, his own death being hastened by his grief over her loss. Their friends cannot but regret the imposition of undue influence in Mrs. Lee's will which will be contested by the Mintzer children who are at present residing in Europe.—Town Talk.

Purely Personal

Mrs. William Miller Graham's maiden name was Pollock, but she isn't related to that name. When Mayor Ralph has the time to spare he likes to play the flute. District Attorney Elbert has a brother who is Major Tom Charlton but not so lucky. Tom Charlton is never so happy as when he is deep in the Greek and Latin classics. He is perhaps his favorite. And he doesn't read them in translation either.—Town Talk.

Executive Mansion Is Embellished

The amount of money which has been spent in renovating the executive mansion at Sacramento would appear to indicate that Governor Johnson has social aspirations entirely different from those with which he has been accredited by the press of San Francisco. When the Governor took office it was reported that he kicked strenuously at the suggestion that he should occupy an executive mansion built to house the chief magistrates of the great State of California. I am informed, however, that the gubernatorial residence has all the fine touches imparted to it that could be given by a staff of the most expert decorators. No expense has been spared, and the mansion will be the delight of the fortunate ones who may receive invitations to future state functions. Connoisseurs who have been permitted a view of the interior of the mansion speak in the highest terms of the good taste displayed in the decoration and remodeling, from roof to basement. The chief glory of the executive mansion under the new regime is the billiard room. The German Kaiser, with all his love of imperial splendor, could not desire more gorgeous surroundings when he wishes to entertain visiting royalties with ivory and cue. The cloth of the massive billiard table is of royal purple, the furnishings in oakwood, and the side curtains of dull, rich gold, the tout ensemble being truly regal. Some visiting statesmen have suggested that crowns should be painted in the billiard cues and crests placed on the lumps of chalk, but these embellishments have been held in abeyance pending the results of the approaching elections for President. As the Governor does not cultivate Sacramento society, and, in fact, seems to be almost oblivious of its existence, it is surmised that the magnificence of the executive mansion must be intended for other than native eyes. A grand state ball, with the list of guests augmented by the elite of San Francisco and Burlingame, may, be in secret contemplation.—The Wasp.

A New Use for a Mortar Board

Young Dick O'Connor, the attorney, has a big head. Let me not be misunderstood, however. Dick is really modest—for a lawyer. I refer merely to the physical magnitude of his head, not to anything else. Dick's head is so large that when graduating from the University of California he couldn't get a mortar board to fit. The result was that in the procession to the Greek Theater Dick had a hard time keeping his mortar board on. After devoting all his attention to the subject for some time he was heard to laugh heartily. Gus Keane who walked beside him asked why he laughed. "I was just thinking," said Dick, "that I am the first of the O'Connors to wear a mortar board for a hat."—Town Talk.

Suicide of Mrs. Lorillard

The maiden name of Mrs. Benjamin Lorillard, who hanged herself in a bath room in a New York hotel the other day, was Kathleen Doyle. She was born in Alken, S. D. Mrs. Lorillard met Miss Doyle in South Carolina when he was on a hunting trip and a romantic attachment followed. Both were intensely devoted to outdoor amusements. After their marriage in the winter of 1905, they made their home among the New Yorkers at Asheville, and in the spring of 1908 Mrs. Lorillard distinguished herself as a hurdle rider at the Asheville Horse Show. In 1907 the couple went on a long hunting trip in the Balsam mountains. The next spring they went to Europe, but hurried back in time for the Asheville Horse Show, and then attended the Horse Show at Greenville, S. C., where Mrs. Lorillard won a blue ribbon. The Lorillards traveled frequently of a world-grinding tour to be undertaken together. Last year they were about to start on the tour Mrs. Lorillard was taken ill. Mr. Lorillard went alone on his trip, and soon afterward Mrs. Lorillard was operated on, and then went for the summer to the home of Mr. Kermochan at Newport. She went out little during the summer, as she was in mourning for her husband's father, the well-known multimillionaire tobacco man. In October Mrs. Lorillard was injured severely in a runaway accident in which the horse she drove broke a leg and had to be shot. The trap struck a tree and she was hurled out with great force. While still suffering from her accident, news arrived that her husband had been taken ill in Australia in November. She intended to go to him as soon as she was convalescent but changed her plans on learning that he had recovered and awaited his return to America. Apparently the meeting of the couple in New York the other day was most affectionate. The next day, however, Mrs. Lorillard hanged herself while her husband was in the hotel office arranging to take her for an automobile trip. She suddenly took off her fur coat, cast it on the bed and hanged herself with a leather strap in the bathroom. It is a curious thing that a few days after Mrs. Lorillard's suicide, Mrs. Blanche Carson of San Francisco hanged herself in an extraordinary manner in a New York hotel by tying the fatal rope around a radiator and jumping out of the window. Hanging is one of the methods of suicide least adopted by women.—The Wasp.

How She Viewed It

Mrs. Carson belonged to an old Santa Clara family which has always been very averse to notoriety. For that reason, no doubt, her arrest in New York on a charge of trying to smuggle jewelry was regarded by her as one of the most dreadful things that could have occurred, and in order to avoid the disgrace she took her life. It has been said of the unfortunate lady that, being wealthy, she should not have tried to defraud the custom house, but the average woman tourist never thinks of the consequences of smuggling until she is confronted by the inspectors at New York and her trunks are under examination. Then she realizes her awkward predicament. It isn't in the power of the average woman to refrain from purchasing a good hat and jewelry in Europe or the Orient when she sees how much cheaper they get them there than at home. Once bought, she does not wish to lose them.—The Wasp.

A Ragtime Cake

Guests at the rag party given by Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Holbrook last week were given a surprise at supper when a large cake was borne into the dining-room by a proud Japanese cook. The host and hostess shared the amusement of their friends being unprepared for this contribution to the evening's entertainment. The cake was an enormous round one covered with frosting and when passed for inspection was found to bear legends in pink on its white surface. One side was printed "What's the matter with rag-time?" and opposite a scroll stated "Everybody's doing it." The Oriental's mind, imbued with the idea of the entertainment, had evolved the scheme of embodying it in the refreshments and the cake was a great hit.—Town Talk.

Bowling Japanese Prints

Reader, are you an amateur of Japanese prints? Do you boast of your prints of Fujiyama by Hokusai, your landscapes by Hiroshige and your women of the Yoshiwara by Utamaro? Then how will you feel when you are told that your beloved prints are regarded as cheap, haphazard productions in Japan? That Japanese artists do not consider them seriously? That they are never to be found in a Japanese studio? All this and more is asserted by our own Henry P. Bowie in the book which he has just written called "On the Laws of Japanese Painting." And Bowie ought to know. One of Japan's best known writers has said of him that he knows more about Japanese art than many Japanese. The Emperor of Japan has honored him for his artistic productions in the Japanese manner. But Bowie has little use for Japanese prints. "At one time or another," he says, "I have visited nearly every distinguished artist's studio in Japan, and I know personally most of the leading artists of that country. I have never seen a Japanese print in the possession of any of them, and I know their sentiments about all such work. A print is a lifeless production, and it would be quite impossible for a Japanese artist to take prints into any serious consideration. They rank no higher than set velvet scenery or embroidered screens. I am aware that such prints are in great favor with many enthusiasts, and that collectors highly value them; but they do not exemplify art as the Japanese understand that term."—Town Talk.

Rear-Admiral's Marital Troubles

Rear Admiral Albert Reynolds Condon (retired), whose wife has sued for a limited divorce and maintenance, is well known in San Francisco. He draws a salary of $6000, and allowed his wife $250 a month when the couple separated last year. The wife went abroad, but came back to live with the Admiral, and so notified him by letter. He didn't meet her, and furthermore reduced her allowance to $100 a month to discourage her prolonged residence in the United States. She therefore sought the relief which the courts may allow her. Mrs. Condon was a widow, Mrs. Helen Addicks, when Admiral Condon married her at Philadelphia in 1883. She has a daughter by her former husband, but no children by her present marriage. Before his retirement in 1908 Admiral Condon was president of the Board of Naval Ordnance. He was born at Michigan City, Indiana, in 1846, and graduated from the Naval Academy in 1867. Prior to that, in 1864, he was sent into active service in the Civil War. He is now residing in his native city. His wife and stepdaughter are at a convent in Washington.—The Wasp.

Looking for the Sack

Al Murphy of the Examiner tells of a hungry-looking Democratic editor who blew into town from up-country the other day. Meeting Al in the lobby of the Palace the editor asked: "Is it true that the Hearst papers are for Champ Clark?" "Yes," admitted Murphy. "And is the Examiner in California?" "The Examiner will do its share," said Murphy. "And is Mr. Hearst going to put his money into the Clark campaign in California?" went on the editor. "That is a question which Mr. Hearst alone can answer," replied Murphy. There was a pause, and the hungry editor looked disappointed. Finally he said: "Mr. Murphy, could you direct me to the Woodrow Wilson headquarters?"—Town Talk.

Tin-Horn Gambler Defined

Joseph H. Hutchinson, formerly Lieutenant Governor of Idaho, subsequently a gun-fighter of Tonopah and Goldfield, now a quiet, law-abiding resident of San Francisco, having sheathed his shooting-irons and applied his bowie knife (perhaps it is vice versa) is getting a vicarious enjoyment out of life these days. He reads the daily press and regales himself with the blood and thunder stories of the front page, then sits back and thinks of the man "he used to be." He is president of a sort of naturalized Baedeker arrangement known as "See America First," so he does not have to worry about the bacon of the pantry and the shoes for the baby. One of the yarns which he spins on occasion makes Bob Conley the great Conley is publicity man of the Taft campaign, and is pretty busy these days, but he finds time to retell with this: Hutchinson was a witness in a celebrated lawsuit in Idaho. The judge had taken occasion to use the phrase "tin-horn gambler," applying the term in opprobrium to one who was reputed to be the opposite of square, as that word is interpreted on the frontier. On the stand, Hutchinson was called upon to explain his understanding of the term. "A tin-horn," said Hutchinson, "is a low-lived cuss who lays for the miners when they come off shift with their pockets full of the maxims. He gets them half drunk and then tries to trim them." "Then what is the difference between a tin-horn and a real gambler?" the judge asked. "The real gambler trims the tin-horn," answered Hutchinson, who was, at the time, running a wheel and has a rep. as a premier faro dealer.—News Letter.

Moffitt-Gebhardt Wedding April 8

Many of the members of our smart-setters will cross the bay to attend the wedding of Miss Eloise Gebhardt and Jefferson Moffitt, which is scheduled to take place at Grace Episcopal Church, April 8, at half after eight o'clock. Moffitt, who is a splendid type of young American, is the son of Mrs. Frank Moffitt, whose husband was one of the most popular and highly respected citizens of our community. At his death some years ago, he left a large fortune to the widow and son, the young groom-elect, who is the only child. Mrs. Moffitt is one of the most intellectually brilliant women in California. She has never cared for any of the diversions offered by society but has spent most of her time abroad in study. She is the possessor of one of the largest and most complete private libraries in the State. Young Moffitt, under the supervision of his mother, has been most carefully reared, and besides being a pianist of no mean ability and an exceptionally brilliant conversationalist, is considered one of the most genial and interesting hosts on either side of the bay. Miss Gebhardt is a very pretty girl of the blonde type and comes from an old and socially prominent family of San Francisco. She is a popular member of the younger set of that city. The destination of the honeymoon, up to the present, has been kept a secret, but we know that upon returning the young couple will make their home in this city, much to the delight of the many friends of the young groom and his mother. It is safe to predict that as a welcome to the pretty bride will be the motif for a round of affairs planned in her honor by her husband's friends on his side.—Oakland Observer.

It Was an Exquisite Nightie

Once in a decade fact so far outstrips fiction that one hesitates to attempt to produce the facts that tax credulity. But here is an absolutely true story told at the Francisco Club the other day, substantiated by all the members of the club's family and attested to by a young man who, tried and failed to convince his fellows at the University Club that he was not a fiction pirate.

There was a hurricane wind storm not so many days ago. No one will dare rise up and dispute that fact, for the official record at the weather bureau in People's Exhibit A. At exactly ten o'clock that morning a rowdy gust of wind tore down Broadway. At that moment a young man with a stout set of everyday prejudices against getting down town too early, closed the door of his mother's palatial home. Simultaneously with the bang of the door, a window of a mansion across the street opened, a soft white cloud of something blew out, swirled madly around in the favoring breeze, now flattened itself out, now it rolled itself up like a white kitten, again it was like a dancing dervish of a white cap, and finally the air inflated it, lent substance to it and sent it straight into the arms of the young man.

It was an exquisite "nightie," all hand-embroidered and blue ribbioned. "It was lying on the chair near the window," explained the owner over the teacups, "and when I opened the window, pouf! it went out like so much fluff!" The man stood with the thing at arm's length while the wind whipped it, and wondered whether he would cast it to the four winds or courageously return it. The girl saw his hesitancy. She knew how many hours he had taken her best friends to put in all those stitches. She opened the window again, put out her blonde head, and was about to call out across the wind-swept street, when another white cloud swirled through the window, tossed and tumbled about, and was only captured by the young man owing to his training as an amateur pole vaulter. This time he boldly looked up at the window. But the window was closed, the blind was down, and the girl confessed over the tea table that she was on the floor having hysterics.

The young man, with the hero yeast working in his blood, hunched up his shoulders, lowered his head to the gale and made for the door of the house across the street. In a firm voice he asked the maid for the young lady. She leaned over the banisters. He rolled them up in a ball and tossed them up to her with the graceful flourish of a prize pitcher. They both laughed, and then he said: "If you are going to open the window again, and there are any more at home like this, I'll go back and stand at first base—if not, I'll go to the office."

"I hope I haven't detained you," she said. "Oh, it's been a great pleasure, I assure you," he responded. "Any time I can be of service to you when it's blowing in your face just let me know."—News Letter.

Keith's Pictures Will Live

Among art critics it has been much discussed since the death of William Keith whether the pictures of the great California artist would live. Many California artists' paintings have lost their value after the death of the painters. The first opportunity to judge of the posthumous value of Keith's work was given the other day in New York at an important sale under the auspices of the American Art Galleries. Although the total of $60,000 was reached, the prices of the pictures sold were mostly low. A fine canvas by Diaz, which was sold a few years ago for $14,000, brought only $2700. Other paintings by famous masters failed to fetch the right prices. "The Artist's Model," by Gerome, went for $1100. Not long ago the same picture was purchased for $8000. Paintings by such great artists as Julien Dupre, Vibert, Corot, Harpignies, Detaille, Schreyer, almost went begging. Two landscapes by William Keith were offered. One was purchased by Louis Katz for $375, and the other by E. P. Byrne for $850. Considering that a Julien Dupre was sold for $375, and that other pictures by famous painters brought equally low prices, the sale of the two Keiths was remarkable. The California painter was one of the few American artists represented at the sale. David Warfield, the San Francisco actor, bought for $400 the fine picture, "The Pond at Hermon," by Harpignies.—The Wasp.

Sense of Humor as an Asset

How much of an asset is a sense of humor? In the case of a well known society woman it offsets all her liabilities, and judgments rendered against her family in open court prove that their liabilities are wider than the margin of their income. She has the type of wit which distinguishes her family, and which has been turned to commercial account in brochures and calendars and plays. It is told of her father that when he was Minister to one of the Central American republics he parted a revolution in the middle by making one of the warring generals jelly with laughter while the president fled to a place of safety.

Her husband is a raconteur of recognized ability, but hardly in her class. Neither of them makes any bones about the attenuated condition of the family bank account, and society receives them just as graciously as before they were sued in court for unpaid bills. Not long ago at a tea a bachelor girl with a neat wit of her own, and a grudge against the aforementioned matron, said: "I heard that some people were put out of the Swellcrest for not paying their bills."

"Well, if you will gossip with servants and housekeepers, you mustn't blame them for treating you like an equal and telling you all they know," flashed back the lady who had formerly lived at that address. Not long ago a dressmaker who has a very fashionable clientele dunned the lady for a long overdue account. Her customers overheard her at the telephone, and one of them communicated with the over-due patron and advised her to ask the dressmaker to be more cautious in the future. "There is no telling who might hear her and use it against you," expostulated the friend. "Of course, I don't believe that you are trying to evade payment altogether, but to hear the dressmaker talk, one would fancy that you never pay any bills." "I must get one of last year's receipts and frame it for my chateau!" is the gay response credited to the lady, although there are those who affirm that no authentic receipt could possibly bear so recent a date.—News Letter.

The Announcement by Wire

When you're not sure of your girl, wire to a paper that the news of her engagement to somebody else is absolutely untrue and that she's yours. This is now considered the chic thing to do, although some old-fashioned folk say it is cheeky. Joe Eastland did it when Vesta Shortridge was said to be engaged to young Havemeyer. Joe cabled all the way from Turin that Vesta was his. And Harry Scott has resorted to the same expedient. He wired from Colorado to say that Ruth Boettcher of Denver was not going to marry Sir Thomas Lipton. "She is mine," said Harry with a proud sense of ownership. The thing is picturesque, but doesn't seem to work well. Vesta didn't marry the sugar lord, so to that extent Joe Eastland was right. Miss Boettcher says she isn't going to wed the baron, thus corroborating part of Harry Scott's wire. But having declined to take sugar with her matrimonial tea, Vesta also declined to take Joe Eastland. She took a soldier instead. And Miss Boettcher, having refused to take tea at all, likewise refuses to take Harry Scott seriously. "She is mine," avers Harry. "I ain't." Insists Ruth, though in more elegant language, as becomes a young woman of millionaire culture. The announcement by wire adds to the gaiety of life, but seems to be unlucky. It is meant to clinch matters but it only confuses them. So far it has not been shown to be a success. But then Joe Eastland and Harry Scott are the only two who have tried it so far. The next will make three and there is said to be a charm in that number.—Town Talk.

Wallace Irwin and the Fog

Wallace Irwin has at last betrayed the canny Scotch strain which his front name would suggest. Wallace unremotely sings praises of California to the tune of the guinea's jingle, but he does it so gracefully that no one has had the hardihood to protest against his obvious commercialism, until now. At last the worm has turned. Wallace it was who said, at so much per word, that he'd rather be a busted lamp-post on Battery street (this was just after the big fire) than be the Waldorf-Astoria in New York. This was a very nice sentiment, and nobody took offense. But here's the rub. His latest soliloquy is so atrociously glaring. He doubled up, as it were, or rather back, on himself.

Last summer he came out from New York to attend the Bohemian Club links. He traveled on "transportation," such as is furnished to all good newspaper men. Arriving here after a hot, dry, dusty trip across the burning sands, he drank (no charge) the San Francisco fog that rested like a benison on his fevered brow, the brow of the Irwinesque bulge. Yes, same brow. Fog felt some fine. Wallace retires to the privacy of his sanctum and writes a poem to it, the fog, not the sanctum. The following week he goes up to the Bohemian Grove, and when asked to indite a gem of poetry to the occasion and inscribe it in the log, he recalls the Ode to the Fog.

The Bohemians, since then, have guarded the lines tenderly, and have held them too sacred for utilitarian purposes, such as printing them in the "fog" press for the great unwashed to read. They were enshrined on the Olympian Heights of Bohemia.

Now comes the "Pacific Coast Number" of Life, the New York Weekly. In it, played up to beat the band, is an Ode to San Francisco's Fog, written by Wallace Irwin.—News Letter.

Wedding of Mrs. McKee's Sister

The wedding of Miss Katherine Baxter and Russell Burrage will take place on Tuesday, April 9, at one of the fashionable Episcopal churches in New York City. The ceremony will be followed by an elaborate reception at Sherry's. Miss Baxter is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Baxter of Tennessee, and a sister of Mrs. Cornelius Baxter McKee McKee, who is coming from Paris to be present at the marriage of her sister.—The Wasp.

Was on Lord Roberts' Staff

Madame Hortense Paulsen, whose visit to California has been a matter of so much interest to musical circles as well as in a social way, is the wife of Captain H. A. Levenson of the 27th Enniskillen Fusiliers. This officer was on the staff of Lord Roberts during the Boer War, and was seriously wounded at the battle of Colenso. It was during that engagement that the son of the distinguished English general lost his life. Young Roberts was a gallant soldier, and a brilliant military career had been predicted for him. His untimely death was greatly deplored. Captain Levenson was with Lieutenant Roberts when the latter was killed. The accomplished wife of Captain Levenson is justly regarded as one of the greatest exponents of English ballad singing.—The Wasp.

Mrs. Harding Returns

Mrs. George Harding whose husband's death occurred in Philadelphia a few weeks since has returned to San Francisco to reside in future and her old friends are extending a cordial welcome. Mrs. Harding was one of the two beautiful young girls, step-daughters of the late Judge O. C. Pratt, the father of Orville Pratt who married Miss Emily Wilson. She was Lily Jones and her sister Adele is Mrs. James Keeney, mother of Mrs. Talbot Walker. Since her marriage to the wealthy Philadelphian who died recently, she has lived in Philadelphia and there is much rejoicing among her friends over her return. Mrs. Harding's young daughter, Miss Jane Harding, said to be as beautiful as her cousin Mrs. Walker, is at a finishing school in the East, and will be one of the debutantes of two-winters hence.—Town Talk.

The Departure of the Bohemians

We there ever such another demonstration on the Pacific Mail dock as that which preceded the departure of the Manchuria carrying Raphael Weill, Frank Unger and Dr. Ahnsworth on their tour of the world? I think not. There were all of 200 men and women there to wish them a happy voyage. There was no end of flowers, including two beautiful Hawaiian leis, one of pansies and the other of carnations, for Frank Unger. There were toasts and there were cheers and there was a suspicion of moisture in some eyes. Frank Unger received most of the attention, so much in fact that he was exceedingly reluctant to depart. When the big vessel's headline was let go, a tug full of Bohemian clubmen chugged alongside and didn't leave the steamer until it reached the heads. As the Manchuria steamed through the Golden Gate the last adieus were exchanged between the travelers and their friends. There was only one rift in the blue, one omission to mar the perfection of the send-off. Not a single Bohemian thought of bringing Frank Unger a bottle of his favorite Bohemian Club rye.—Town Talk.

He'd Be a Catch

A recent arrival from the East who has caused a flutter in the smart set is Willis Goodwin, wealthy bachelor of New York, who has received much attention during the past weeks and has reduplicated with a number of enjoyable dinner parties. Goodwin has off interests in California and is rated as several times a millionaire, so he would be a great catch for the belles of our parish. At present Goodwin is host to a party of friends enjoying a motor tour of Southern California. In the party are James Robinson, Miss Jennie Hooker, Miss Elena Robinson and several others.—Town Talk.

A Calve Mot

Madame Calve was the favorite singer of Queen Victoria. Whenever there was music at Windsor the other professional artists departed at the end of the concert, but Calve was invited to stay all night. The queen gave her many jewels of great value, and further testified to her affection and admiration by keeping a bust of the singer in her apartments. Calve was asked once how it happened that she was such a favorite with Queen Victoria. "Oh, I'm sure I don't know," she replied, "unless it is because I am not acquainted with the Prince of Wales."—Town Talk.

Miss Mattheas Engaged

Formal announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Louise Mattheas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mattheas, and Lieutenant Truman D. Thorpe, U. S. A., retired. Lieutenant Thorpe is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Thorpe of Oakland. Miss Mattheas is popular with a wide circle of friends and has entertained extensively since her debut a season or two ago. The family home is on Broadway. The wedding will be an event of the early summer.—The Wasp.

"Uplands" to Be House-Warmed.

The Templeton Crookers are to take possession this week of "Uplands" which has undergone extensive renovation and improvement under the direction of the new mistress. Mrs. Crooker has had the place entirely redecorated and her own apartments have been reconstructed in the space of several former rooms on the second floor. There are bed-chamber, boudoir and marble bath for the fair chateaulaine whose preference for American beauty pink has been evidenced in the decorations. In the large reception hall are hung some of the tapestries selected by the couple on their honeymoon trip to Italy. Exteriously the house remains as it was during Miss Jennie Crooker's occupancy. It is a rambling roomy structure with round eels. There will be a house-warming next week when Mr. and Mrs. Irwin, Mrs. Jeers, Miss Marian Neesham and Mr. and Mrs. Talbot Walker will be among the house-guests.—Town Talk.

The King Objects

King Alfonso of Spain, and not the Pope at Rome, is responsible for the hitch in arranging a marriage between Mary L. Duke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin N. Duke, of 1075 Fifth avenue, New York, and Prince Ludovico Pignatelli d'Aragon. When Prince Ludovico was informed early this month that the King did not look with favor on his contemplated match with the daughter of the American tobacco magnate, he packed his trunks and left for Madrid. There he will try to convince the royal household that his future bride should be received.

Prince Ludovico must also convince the head of his own family, the Prince Pignatelli d'Aragon, and a grandson of Spain, of the desirability of the proposed match. Before leaving, the Prince told friends that he would soon return, and had been called home only by the illness of his mother. She is an English woman, and was a member of the family of the Duke of Devonshire. Benjamin N. Duke is said to be violently opposed to the proposed match between his daughter and the Spanish-Italian Prince, but his wife and son, so close friends of the family, say, had won his reluctant consent when the Prince's mother threw a thunderbolt into the camp. She wrote that King Alfonso did not regard the match with favor, and that it would be just as well for him to be consulted first.

Prince Pignatelli arrived in this country last August, to be the guest of the Robert Walter Goetzels at Newport. On his arrival here he said that he had not come in search of an American bride, and that he was wealthy in his own right and didn't need money.—The Wasp.

Society Leader Has Eye Trouble

The many friends of Mrs. William Tevis are grieved over her long-continued confinement in her room, where she is undergoing treatment for a serious eye trouble which has incapacitated her from enjoying the use of her eyes for some time. Mrs. Tevis returned from Europe a few months ago, and seemed in radiant health as a result of the treatment at one of the health resorts there. She was reduced to approximate the slender proportions demanded by fashion, and planned to take an active part in the social campaign. But during polo week the first symptoms of eye trouble appeared, and Mrs. Tevis has been confined to her room ever since. Her friends have expressed their sympathies by all the attentions that can possibly be bestowed upon an invalid.—News Letter.

Mrs. Alexander's Romance

Now that it is settled that the young Roosevelt is to live in New York it must be a great comfort to Mrs. Alexander, the mother of the charming young wife, for a greater and closer companionship never existed between a mother and child. Mrs. Alexander has always lived in New York and the other great capitals of the world, and is of the creme-de-la-creme of their social life. She has always been accustomed to great wealth and its accompanying social advantages but there has never been anything spectacular about her mode of life. Cultured and beautiful there is the same quiet charm about her which has so attracted those who had the good fortune to come in contact with her daughter, Mrs. Roosevelt, during her brief San Francisco residence. Really, if little Grace Roosevelt can grow up to be as lovely a woman as her granddaughters Grace Roosevelt, she will not lose anything by not having been born a boy to be named after her widely advertised paternal grandpa. Mrs. Alexander visited her daughter here for some months but it was not her first visit to this burg. In the early 90's she came to this State to establish a residence of six months in order to obtain a divorce from her husband, Henry Addison Alexander. She was accompanied by her daughter Eleanor (now Mrs. Roosevelt), her father, and English chaperon, a nurse and a maid. She was greatly sought after here, in Santa Barbara and at Castle Crag, then the vogue, and was followed from place to place by her most eligible bachelors and widowers. But she would have none of them. A few years after her divorce, her gay and festive husband dashed back to see her in New York from Paris where he had established a law practice among Americans. He laid violent siege to her heart again but she refused to remarry him as all her family violently opposed it. Bitterly disappointed he left at the last moment to embark in his voyage across the Atlantic. At two or three o'clock the next morning her father's household was aroused by violent ringing at the door-bell. It was a "brave Harry" back again. It seems a terrible story across and the captain of the steamer had put back off Sandy Hook until morning and calm. Here was his chance. He pleaded that God had intervened in his behalf, had sent him back to her, that she must be his once more. Providence prevailed. She sailed with him as Mrs. Alexander again and resided a long time in Paris. I am sorry I don't know whether "they lived happily ever after" or not. I have read here and there that they are again divorced and that he is remarried. But from the fact of her now being known as Mrs. Henry Addison Alexander I am inclined to think that she is a widow. But I am sure we all wish for her daughter and for her tiny namesake all the domestic bliss she missed. Charles Alexander, the brother of Henry, is married to Hattie Crooker, sister of W. H. Crooker of this city.—Town Talk.

The Meddler

WHAT constitutes a lady? "Genuine courtesy of a type which never can be taught. True politeness is the natural expression of a kind heart welling forth spontaneously from a nature which holds no narrow thought of self, but in honor prefereth another."

The above question and the accompanying answer came to the Meddler this week with a request that other definitions be asked for. It would be difficult to formulate a better definition, or one so beautifully effective, nevertheless, the whole problem offers a wide scope for discussion.

It might open up the subject as to how "manners" are to be taught to this younger generation now growing up. How large a place should the subject of "manners and morals" have in the school course of study. It is a most important subject especially for the girls and the social world might well pause in its career and consider definitely what answers may be made to the all-important question, "What constitutes a lady?"

Suggestions and discussions will be most cordially welcomed by "The Meddler."

CABARETS AND SOME WAYS AND MEANS.

Most of the leading philanthropies are discussing ways and means of doors to an enthusiastic crowd of Bohemians—Bohemians of all grades in the social scale. Young men in velvet caps, baggy trousers and flowing silken bows, with weird pipes between their lips, mingled freely with noted authors and their wives, in immaculate evening dress. In the front row of seats there was even a real, live countess—or so I was informed, in an awed whisper, by one of the velvet-capped, baggy-trousered young men.

"The leading light in this welcome institution is Miss Floyd Ariston, a charming American lady, who sings 'coon' songs in a manner which is quite unrivaled, and its headquarters are the Clavier Hall, Hanover Square, the home of the Arts and Dramatic Club—though I hear that, if the zealous efforts of those concerned should meet with the success they deserve, the cabaret will acquire a home of its own in the heart of theater-land.

"Large posters, in crude and startling colors, depicting gruesome scenes or gross caricatures, hang upon the walls around the little hall, while the miniature stage itself is provided with a curtain which can belong to none but the dim-future school of art. Here and there amongst the closely placed chairs are little wooden tables—Bohemian tables—and, as the entertainment proceeds, obsequious waiters flit about, conveying liquors, coffees and sandwiches to those whose laughter and enjoyment have given meeting the financial deficit which the high cost of living seems to make inevitable this year. The London and New York smart sets have planned "Cabarets," and wherever there has been a meeting to consider the all-important subject of "ways and means," this same "Cabaret" scheme has been suggested. And most of the women look hopelessly blank when the word "Cabaret" greets their ears. For it is not exactly "a safe chit-chat," a scheme borrowed from the French which has been successfully tried across the bay.

A popular English writer gives us a most fascinating picture of a successful London Cabaret:

"I refer to the Theatre-Cabaret, that Noir, which last week opened its them an appetite for such Bohemian ailments.

ARTISTS ANNOUNCED BY MADAME LA PATRONNE.

"The entertainment is of a varied nature. There is no program; the names of the artists are announced from the stage by Madame la Patronne in the approved cabaret fashion. We pass from a little Russian lady, who sings delightful songs in her native tongue, to an Italian gentleman, who, to his own accompaniment, charms our ears with the beautiful Neapolitan street-songs; thence to a graceful lady who provides an Eastern dance, an American pianist and a German violinist—all of wondrous capability. And so on.

Later, Miss Ariston herself obliges with some of her most popular

"coon" songs, sung in her breeziest manner, to the delight of all."

For "Madame La Patronne," Madame, the patroness, there would have to be a leader of distinction—one with great executive ability—Mrs. Isaac Regua, Mrs. Remi Chabot, Mrs. Mark L. Regua, Mrs. Frank C. Havens, Mrs. Frank L. Brown—women who take the lead in social affairs on this side of the bay.

Of course, we have many "Bohemians" to make effective our "Cabaret"—but one is quite sure our men would not mind dressing up in baggy trousers, velvet caps, with flowing silken bows, with weird pipes. We could name fifty men at least who could fit the part specially well.

And as for "coon songs," well there is no gainsaying the fact that Alexander's Rag Time Band has simply swept the American smart set off its feet and that social life is keeping pace to the merry music of the rag-time!

But no matter what London may be able to do in the way of an effective "Cabaret," it could never have a "Madame, the Patroness," any more dignified, charming or delightful than we could have ourselves—out here in the far west.

SETTLEMENT WORK BEST OF SCHOOLS.

John Graham Brooks, in an address to the Collegiate Alumnae said: "Go work in a settlement—it is the best of schools for citizenship."

So it happens that more than the usual degree of interest attended the reception given at the Oakland Social Settlement yesterday, in the large building on Third and Linden streets. There was a large gathering to listen to the annual reports which showed the settlement to be in a most flourishing condition, and one was much impressed with the optimistic spirit everywhere apparent and with the great "friendliness," which was a rare charm, contributing to the enjoyment of the afternoon.

It is amazing to realize that the average attendance is 500 a week, and all sorts of useful, helpful and delightful activities have been planned for the self-respecting people of the neighborhood.

The building was the gift of the late S. F. Alexander, and the Alexanders have always done much to further the interests of the settlement. The directors are:

Miss S. T. Alexander, Mrs. C. H. Gornall, Mrs. L. J. Teller, Mrs. G. H. Bredley, Mrs. W. H. Chickering, Mrs. Murray Job, Mrs. Charlotte Elvick, Mrs. M. H. Alexander, Mrs. Sarah Horton, Mrs. L. J. Gorman, Mrs. Ethel Moore, Mrs. Mabel T. Gornall.

The resident workers are Mrs. R. P. Smith and Miss Minnie Smith.

In regard to membership one reads the following significant sentence: "The regular monthly or yearly contribution of three dollars per year, or more, constitutes a membership in the Oakland Social Settlement Association."

The building was beautifully decorated with spring blossoms, and the many guests were served with delightful refreshments prepared by the young girls of the cooking classes.

The reception was one of the events of the week planned along lines of most unusual interest.

SAN LEANDRO WOMAN DELIGHTFUL HOSTESS.

Mrs. Collins of San Leandro was the hostess at one of the most delightful bridge luncheons of the spring, having invited a number of friends to be her guests in her hospitable country home. They have all been most enthusiastic over the beautiful luncheon table, which represented a Lenten color scheme in purples and lavenders. It was specially beautiful, the colors lending themselves to decorations in a most surprising manner.

The flowers were in purple tones, and lovely lavender tulle added the lighter effects in a charming fashion. Strands of tulle were held up by rabbits in white and gold and the table was an ideal study in superb color tones.

The house was so charming that the occasion might well have been named "A cherry blossom festival in San Leandro."

Among the lovely spring gowns of the guests the following costumes were specially artistic, those worn by:

Mrs. Henry Rosenfeld, Miss Carrie Nicholson, Mrs. A. A. Long, Mrs. Charles Frederick Smith, Mrs. F. C. Coogan, Miss May Coogan, Mrs. J. W. McClymonds, Mrs. Dudley Kinsell, Mrs. Edward Walsh.

After the luncheon there was an interesting game of bridge, for which handsome prizes were planned by the hospitable hostess.

PICTURES IN THE MEDDLER.

Miss Lucille Cook, whose picture appears in tonight's Meddler, is the granddaughter of the late Mrs. Henry Butters. The announcement of her engagement to Dr. Robert Hoyt was of much interest in local society. She is the daughter of Mrs. Lincoln Karmany, and a niece of Mrs. Augustus Bray, Mrs. Marie Butters Metcalf, and Miss Marguerite Butters. Her marriage will take place after Easter.

Miss Florence Treadwell is another bride-to-be, her wedding with Milton Horswell to take place on April 18. Meanwhile she is being given a round of entertainments. On April 2, Mrs. Roy Cowles will compliment Miss Treadwell, and on April 4, Mrs. Frederick Vickers will be hostess.

Miss Gertrude Baker is one of the younger set. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Baker.

Miss Geneva Griswold has a wide friendship circle here and the family home is the scene of much open-hearted hospitality.

WEDNESDAY MORNING CLUB AND TETRAZZINI.

There is much quiet excitement among the members of the Wednesday Morning Club, that musical organization which is doing such good work here. And the reason for the unusual excitement lies in the fact that this Wednesday Morning Club is to sing with Tetrazzini on Good Friday at the Hearst Greek Theater. It is to be part of that great chorus of 250, which is to sing with Tetrazzini, in Rossini's "Stabat Mater." Tetrazzini is to sing, in addition, Gounod's beautiful "Ave Maria."

Of course the Wednesday Morning Club are trying to sing as befits so wonderful an occasion—for Tetrazzini on Good Friday at the Greek Theater, will mark an occasion memorable and historical.

Our famous Steindorff is doing wonderful work, and he is to lead the orchestra, and while we admire Tetrazzini, we may be very proud of Steindorff also. We have some specially good voices to contribute to that famous chorus, for among the splendid altos one can usually hear the deep singing tones of Mrs. Harry Knowles, Mrs. T. G. Coogan, Mrs. George Jensen, Mrs. J. W. McClymonds and Mrs. Frederick Stratton. Among others who are to sing at the Greek Theater are Mrs. J. Walter Scott, Mrs. Samuel Cheyney, Mrs. James G. Allen and Miss May Coogan.

The color scheme for Good Friday is to be black and white, the men are to wear black suits, and the many women in the chorus are to be very appropriately and prettily gowned in white.

ARTISTIC CARDS TELL OF ENGAGEMENT.

Most artistic cards mailed to their many friends announced last week the engagement of Miss Carmen Sutton and Mr. Ben Reed. The cards of both young people were tied with a bit of tulle, on which was a dainty wedding bell in white and gold.

Miss Carmen Sutton is the only daughter of Mr. and the late Mrs. Charles Sutton. The latter was a member of the Ghiradelli family.

Miss Sutton is a graduate of the High School, a prominent member of the Friday Night Club, and a girl most popular with many people, for her loyalty to her friends is one of her splendid characteristics. The Suttons have a very handsome home at Linda Vista, where Miss Sutton makes her friends most welcome.

Mr. Ben Reed is a young man with exceedingly fine business prospects. He is a University of California man, and his family is among the most prominent in the city. The Reed home on Harrison street has long been known as a center of hospitality. The wedding of Mr. Reed and Miss

Society News of the Week

Sutton is to be a June date, and will be one of the most important weddings of the mid-summer days.

MRS. FRANK J. MOFFITT ENTERTAINS AT DINNER.

Mrs. Frank J. Moffitt, who some time ago opened her home on Sixteenth street, was a hostess of the week, entertaining at a most elaborate dinner, in honor of her son, Jefferson Moffitt, and his bride-elect, Miss Aloise Marie Gebhardt. Mrs. Moffitt is one of the Oakland matrons, who has traveled far, having spent much time abroad, and she is a most charming and very delightful hostess.

She has a very beautifully appointed home, and it carried a lovely scheme of decoration, in honor of Mr. Moffitt and his bride-to-be, Miss Gebhardt. Among the guests were Mr. Moffitt, Miss Gebhardt and the members of the wedding party, and also Dr. and Mrs. Breyfogle (Mrs. Ella Pierce), and Dr. and Mrs. Raymond Russ (Mabel Andrews), recently married.

Mrs. Moffitt and Mrs. Breyfogle were friends in Oakland and later the friendship was continued in Paris, where both spent some time last year.

Mrs. Moffitt's dinner was elaborately planned, and was one of the larger social dates of the week.

GLOVELESS SMART SET.

"To wear gloves or not to wear them," that is the question. But it has almost been decided in the negative, and soon we may perhaps see at our evening entertainments a gloveless smart set. 'Tis a consummation devoutly to be wished. Europe began the custom of going without gloves two years ago, and although protested against by many American women, has been taken up by them more and more each month. Of course, there are thousands of women who still consider it not good form to go to the theater or to a party with bare arms and hands, but the idea is an American one and not world-wide.

The French have always believed that the white evening glove wrinkled over the arm was a bad touch. It looked absurd and inconsistent against the revealed skin of the neck and shoulders. If a woman could expose half or more of her back and all of her shoulders, why should she be so fearfully particular about covering up her arms?

Not only from this standpoint did the French argue, but from the standpoint that the thick kid was in artistic against a gown of gauze; and so it has always been an accepted custom in Paris that those could go without gloves who wished to. During the last two months the absence of gloves in the evening has been strongly commented on with approval and worked up into many a feature story. London says that her smart women discarded gloves two years ago with evening gowns, and that Paris is merely following suit, as it did with the mannish coat and shirt-waist.

There is no doubt that the fashion is gaining followers in America. Even if one has an unlimited credit at the cleaners and can keep two dozen pairs of long white gloves going at one time, there is no surety that one's gloves will not be hideously dirty before an evening's entertainment is over.

MRS. JOHN RUSS IS HOSTESS.

Mrs. John Russ was hostess at an elaborate luncheon on Tuesday at the Hotel Shattuck, Berkeley, in honor of Mrs. William L. Breyfogle and Mrs. Raymond Russ. The table decorations were Japanese peach blossoms, most artistically arranged. After the luncheon bridge was played. The guests were:

Mrs. William L. Breyfogle, Mrs. Gilbert L. Cutler, Mrs. Raymond Russ, Mrs. Edward A. Russell, Mrs. A. D. Freeman, Mrs. A. D. Schlessinger, Mrs. Clement Bennett, Mrs. D. B. Tucker, Mrs. Harvey P. Good, Mrs. Ruth Goodwin, Mrs. Mabel L. Pierce.

Mrs. Russ recently returned from abroad, having spent many months in Europe. Since her home-coming she has been very ill, and this luncheon is the first entertainment she has given since her return. Mrs. Russ made her home in Oakland for so many years that she has many friends, who are glad to welcome her back in their midst once more.

RETURNS FROM OPERATIC TRIUMPHS.

Miss Mabel Reigelman, with her mother, will arrive in Oakland on Monday, after an opera season which has been most successful and full of triumphs for her. She has made a wonderful success for so young a singer, and California may well be proud of her. She created the leading part in "Hansel and Gretel," which was an artistic success, and helped along materially in the receipts of the box-office.

MISS GENEVA GRISWOLD, whose family home here is the scene of much hospitality.

Miss Reigelman has signed again with Mr. Dippel, and she is to sing more leading roles next season, and will come to the coast with the great organization—the Dippel Opera Company—which included last season Mary Garden and other stars of the first musical magnitude.

Miss Reigelman ought to receive many congratulations from all of us on her success, and her home-coming, with fairly won laurels, should represent a genuine welcome.

AN AFTER-EASTER DANCE.

Mrs. Edward Remillard has sent out cards for an after-Easter dance, which she is planning to give in honor of Miss Ethel Johnson and Doctor Elmer Brinckerhoff at the Home Club. Mrs. Remillard has sent out a large number of cards, and she is planning a dance along elaborate and very hospitable lines. One remembers with great pleasure a similar successful affair which she gave in honor of Mr. Clarence Shuey and Miss Sevilla Hayden, when their engagement was announced.

WILL ENTERTAIN AT BRIDGE.

Mrs. James Shephard Jenks, who was formerly Miss Vibetta Martin, has sent out cards for bridge, and is planning to entertain a large number of guests at her home in Oakland avenue on the afternoon of Wednesday, the tenth.

Mrs. Jenks is asking her friends to meet Miss Ethel Johnson, and she is such a bright, clever, happy-hearted hostess that her friends are anticipating a delightful afternoon.

WILL ENJOY EASTER TRIP.

Miss Alice Grimes and Miss Emma Farrier left for the East today, and they will meet the Henshaws on the return of the letter from Europe. They will all spend some time in New York before their return to California.

Dan Volkman and his sister, Miss Johanna Volkman, are leaving in the near future for an extended spring trip. Before their return to the coast they expect to visit Panama and the canal zone.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Bowles, who have recently been to the canal zone, are expected to return home early in the coming week.

WILL SUMMER IN OAKLAND.

Mrs. Edwin Goodall and Arthur Goodall, who have spent the winter at the Fairmont, are planning to return to Oakland this spring, and will open their home in Jackson street. The Goodalls were among the contributors lately to the fund for the poor people of Persia, who are suffering greatly this year from famine.

Holy week is here, and things social must give way to things far more serious. The quiet days of the week lead up to that holiday which burets upon us in all its glory—to Easter Sunday.

The fascinating Easter rabbits have their stores of eggs for the children, and they bring lovely gifts to the rest of us, as well.

Over the hills they come trooping in the early Easter dawn, for the sun dances on Easter Sunday—we all know that—and the rabbits lay gifts and peace offerings at our door, for well do the little rabbits know that it is, indeed, "the dawn of the new day"—a happy Easter Sunday.

MRS. EDWARD HENSHAW WILL CHAPERON.

Mrs. Edward Henshaw will chaperon a party of young people who will spend the Easter holidays at the William G. Henshaw ranch in Mendocino county. Among the young people will be Miss Ida Henshaw and Miss Pearl Cawston, the latter the popular young daughter of Mrs. Tyler Henshaw. The ranch is an altogether delightful place in which to spend a spring holiday. To reach it, one must go to Willits, and from there automobiles take the guests to the famous redwoods of Mendocino county, in the heart of which is the Henshaw ranch.

THE MEDDLER.

HUBBY'S CAKE GOT LINIMENT FLAVOR

Wife Uses Wrong Bottle in Her Culinary Pursuits With Sad Results.

PORTLAND, March 30.—Mr. Roberts is fond of a warm supper. He takes his lunch to work with him. Mrs. Roberts is a good cook, and delights to please her husband.

(There are many families by the name of Roberts living in Portland. The one in question lives north of Holladay avenue and south of Killingsworth.)

The other afternoon the wife made a call, and she lingered over the tea-cups and salad until the shadows grew long and the time to get the evening meal was short. But Mrs. Roberts is quick, and years ago learned to prepare a tasty repast in a few minutes.

The steak was soon pounded tender and made ready to drop into the frying pan the minute the 6 o'clock whistle blew; the potatoes were boiling, tomatoes stewing, a can of peaches opened and the bread sliced. Then did Mrs. Roberts recall that "he" was fond of pastry. There was no time to make a pie, so she quickly decided to stir up a cake, the kind that tastes very good when warm.

Mrs. Roberts sat down to a piping hot supper. Everything was fine and all went well until the last course was reached. He took a generous bite. It tasted unlike anything he had ever eaten.

"Honey, isn't there something strange about this cake?" he asked.

"Why, no, I guess not," replied the wife. "I made it just like I always do."

He took another bite.

"Well, I don't believe I care for cake tonight," he said. And then Mrs. Roberts took a taste. There was something wrong, no mistake.

She investigated and found that a bottle of liniment was standing on the pantry shelf beside the lemon extract she had intended to use.

$18 WORTH OF TALK WINS CHARMING BRIDE

CHICAGO, March 30.—Following a talk over the long distance telephone, which cost him $18, with a girl he had never seen, Maurice Mandelstsky of Minneapolis came to Chicago, paid court to the young woman, Miss Stella Nachimovitz, 177 West Fourteenth street, and they became engaged. The girl's sister is the wife of Maurice's cousin, Nathan Mandelstsky, who lives in Chicago. Nathan and Maurice exchanged letters from time to time, and sometimes Stella would include messages to Maurice and he would reply. She wrote to her to be sure to be at home Sunday, February 25. She expected a visit from him, but instead he called her on the phone. His talk, which seemed to him but a minute, lasted twenty-four, but he paid his $18 bill cheerfully and a few hours afterward was on a train speeding for Chicago. He remained here a week and pressed his suit so ardently that Miss Nachimovitz promised to become his wife. The marriage will take place in June. The young woman is the daughter of a teacher of languages.

Morgan's Japanese Wife Is Visiting San Francisco

MRS. GEORGE D. MORGAN, whose husband is a nephew of J. Pierpont Morgan and who before her marriage was Yuki Noto of Yokohama.

PARIS, March 30.—Four years ago society was startled at the announcement of the marriage of George D. Morgan, nephew of J. Pierpont Morgan, the money king, to a daughter of Japan. She was Yuki Noto of Yokohama before her marriage to Morgan, and has advantages of a very superior education, but speaks very little English.

Shortly after their marriage the couple visited Newport, but received little encouragement from a social standpoint.

Mrs. Morgan recently returned to San Francisco after a visit to Paris, where the Morgans spend much of their time pursuing the diversions and amusements of the cosmopolitan city.

WOMEN IN THE NEWS DEAD, ALIVE--ALL IN COURSE OF ONE DAY

Woman of Texas Has a Strange Experience in Gateway City

STOCKTON, March 30.—Traveling from Texas to Stockton with the expectation of meeting her husband, informed on her arrival of his death at the county hospital and then rejoined by the supposed dead man in a few hours later at a local hotel, is the novel experience of Mrs. Thomas C. Beck.

Beck left the Lone Star State a few months ago to prepare a new home for his wife and babies in San Joaquin. About six weeks ago he was overtaken by an illness that necessitated his removal to the county hospital. The wife in Texas heard of his illness, and decided to hasten to Stockton. Accompanied by two small children, Mrs. Beck arrived and, hastening to a hotel, telephoned to the county hospital to ascertain her husband's condition.

"Beck did you say?" replied the clerk to her inquiry. "Well, he died some days ago, and has been buried."

The receiver went up with a bang at the other end of the line, and the wife became hysterical. Later it was learned that Thomas C. Beck had been discharged from the institution, and that dead man was another Beck.

The husband was found at a local hotel, and just before midnight there was a joyous reunion.

Accuses Husband

LOS ANGELES, March 30.—Gorham Tufts Jr., formerly of Fort Worth, Tex., husband of the widow of the late millionaire, A. R. Roe, of Fort Worth and head of the "Church of God," said to have been established in India, to offset the hold Buddhism had on the Indian people in the county jail here, charged with the mismanagement of his wife's property. Tufts' arraignment was set for next Monday.

Mrs. Tufts charged that her husband got away with more than $100,000 of her estate by using the money to promote various enterprises in default of $20,000 bonds. Tufts was remanded to jail.

Suffragists Lose

ALBANY, N. Y., March 30.—The advocates of votes for women were given a chance to exult over victory in the Assembly for about ten minutes yesterday. At the expiration of that time their exultation came to an end. The bill providing for the submission of the question to the people of the state passed by a vote of 78 to 67, but was quickly reconsidered and tabled by a vote of 68 to 67.

According to the leaders of the movement at the capital, the fight will go on with increased vigor in the legislature next year.

Modiste Grows Rich

NEW YORK, March 30.—The profits from a dressmaking establishment that caters to the "400" of New York society was made known yesterday by the accounting of the executors of Mrs. Joseph N. Osborn's estate. Mrs. Osborn, having divorced her husband, opened a modiste shop and invited her society friends to patronize her. They did, with such good results that her accumulations yielded an income of practically $50,000 a year to her 17-year-old daughter, Audrey Osborn.

Hear From Missing

LONDON, March 30.—A letter from Christabel Pankhurst, militant suffragette, who is under indictment for conspiracy in the window smashing cases, and who has been missing for several weeks, was read at a meeting at Albert Hall, but it gave no clue to her whereabouts. The police are inclined to believe that she is in the United States, where she has relatives.

Forgot Baby

GRASS VALLEY, March 30.—The women of Grass Valley and Nevada City are to have a change of the Fourth of July celebration this year. One woman who attended a meeting on Thursday night, left her baby with a clerk of a nearby store. After the meeting she went home so absorbed with her work that she never gave the baby a thought until the clerk rang the doorbell and presented her with her offspring.

Women Barred

LOS ANGELES, March 30.—Occidental College, a Christian institution of both men and women, will become a college exclusively for men, according to an announcement made by President John Willis Baer, with the authority of the board of trustees.

This action makes the college the only Protestant Christian college for men in the West. The women students, many of whom object strongly to the exclusion of their sex from the institution, are urged to remain until they have completed their studies, but no women will be permitted to matriculate.

THE VEIL SEASON

By Lillian Russell

(Copyright, 1912, Lillian Russell.)

MARCH and April are the months when veils are more necessary than at any other season of the year. The winds of March penetrate the cuticle and cause freckles and roughness, which are hard to overcome. A little precaution at the present time will prevent the later troubles of sunburn and tan. Every woman who walks or rides in an open motor or carriage should wear a veil. The sheer dotted veil is of little use just at this time of the year. A chiffon or grenadine veil will protect the skin from the elements and will keep the face warm. Strange as it may seem from the delicate lightness of the material, chiffon is quite warm enough for a throat covering in all but the chilliest weather and as a face covering is quite sufficient to protect the face from even the intense cold of winter. In the months of March and April colors of veilings are important. I always prefer the light brown shades. The color seems to protect the eyes from the strong light and is also becoming to the complexion.

All shades of green are a protection to the eyes, but to be becoming they must be of a certain shade. Blue veils are becoming to sallowness or pale complexions, but over a fair or rosy complexion, no matter how perfect the skin or natural the color, a blue veil gives the effect of covering much make-up. And even a baby's complexion would have the appearance of being painted if seen through a blue veil. Thick black veils are too dismal and mournful and no woman should wear one unless obliged to by mourning. White veils are most becoming, either plain chiffon or the new lovely finely-woven patterns, if the pattern is not so large that it gives the effect of an old-fashioned antimacassar or tidy. A regular small pattern in the shape of a Maltese cross or fleur de lis, or even a fair-sized dot, is most becoming to any woman or girl.

Women may wear veils pinned closely against the face without harm to their skin unless the cuticle is extremely delicate. But young girls, if they do wear the veils to protect their youthful skins, should never draw the veiling tightly against the face for the reason that veiling collects dust and when too close to the face the dust will irritate the skin that needs no powder.

Veils are not becoming to young girls and should be worn only as a protection in these early months of sudden changes of weather. Therefore they should hang loosely from the rims of the hats and be wide enough to cover the neck from the elements. In Russia, where girls and women always carry a veil, they crochet them at home of the finest silk, with a fairly large mesh and they are generally white or ecru in color. But in that cold country veils are part of their costume. In Norway and Sweden the veil is as much a part of the outdoor dress as a hat and is crocheted of the softest wool, such as babies wear here in winter. There are few cold countries where veils are not worn. Naturally the Eskimo women do not wear them, but then their skins are like parchment and veils would be quite as ludicrous as they would look with their fur gowns and hoods. The Eskimo woman uses her hair as a protection to her face if she ever uses any protection at all.

We who have fine skins to meet the rough weather should always carry a chiffon veil and wear it as a protection. It is generally conceded that the early spring wind is full of germs let loose from the earth and trees by the thawing weather, and until the sun becomes warm enough to burn them up they fly about looking for places to land and feed. Remember, veils have two uses—screens to defy microbes, or cobwebs to attract them.

Answers to Queries

L. O.—No, indeed; two baths a week are not too many. I would advise you to take a bath daily. When taking a bath, put a couple of handfuls of salt into the water, then after bathing take a nap. This will remedy the pimples.

DISGUSTED.—It is hard to tell any one you have never seen how to dress her hair. Why don't you sit in front of your mirror and dress your hair several ways, then adopt the style that is most becoming to you. If you will send me a addressed stamped envelope I shall be happy to send you the formula for a tonic for dry hair.

ANXIOUS.—Perhaps the blood purifier is doing you a great deal of good and if most of all of the pimples and blackheads have disappeared in you have been taking it I would advise you to take it a while longer. However, there are a great many young men afflicted with the same trouble when they are the same age as you. When you are a little older I do not think you will have any more trouble with pimples. Read my little note to "Mrs. J. J.," and try that treatment for a couple of weeks. I am sure this will help you a great deal. You are still young and have plenty of time to grow. Do not worry about being any taller. I shall also send you the green soap treatment upon receipt of a self-addressed stamped envelope.

The Original High School Quartet gave a series of comical songs. In the company of singers were Charles Fullmer, first tenor; Ernest Dill, second tenor; Rex Taylor, first bass, and Alex Young, second bass.

"For some time I've been taking care of our house and cooking meals for my wife and myself," he said. "The work was uninteresting, and it got on my nerves. I was mighty glad to get a drink and forget my troubles."

"Discharged," said Judge Scully.

Among the poets of America, William Cullen Bryant will always occupy a prominent place of mention. He was a very prolific writer, occupying for nearly 60 years, the editorship of one of the great daily newspapers of New York.

Of all his works, his earliest poems, "Thanatopsis" and "A Water-Fowl" are by far the best known, both of these being written while he was a very young man. Bryant died in 1878 at the age of 62 years.

THE best of all things are done by those who "know how."

We want all to know how to make a good cup of Cocoa.

When made right there is no more delicious drink. Cocoa invigorates and warms the body, and in the cold, damp, murky days of early spring time is the most nourishing of all beverages.

Make your next cup of Cocoa by this recipe:

One cup of milk and one lump sugar for each person, heated in a double boiler. In a cup or bowl mix one teaspoonful cocoa for each person, with sufficient milk to make a thick liquid; add this to the hot milk. Lift top boiler out and boil up once. Stir well when serving—add sugar to taste.

and to have it just right be sure you make it from the best of all cocoa preparations—the Cocoa backed by 52 years of Cocoa making "know how."

Today's portrait is of Miss Marian Stone, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Stone, whose beautiful home in this city has been the scene of many elaborate social gatherings. Miss Stone, with her parents, has been spending the winter in San Francisco, where they took apartments. She is a social favorite there as well as here.

PRESCRIBED FAITH
FOR EYE TROUBLEChristian Scientist on Trial for Practising Without a License.

NEW YORK, March 30.—Assistant District Attorney Nott, in his opening address in the trial of Willis Vernon Cole, a Christian Scientist, charged with practicing medicine without a license, asked a jury to decide "once and for all whether Christian Scientists should be allowed to give treatment, that under the public health law no one else is permitted to give without a license."

Cole is charged with treating Mrs. Frances Benzecry for an eye trouble. Mrs. Benzecry told of going to Cole for treatment and how he sat with his eyes closed and prayed for fifteen minutes. This and Cole's advice that she was to give up wearing glasses "and have more faith," made up the treatment for which she said she paid him $1 a visit.

The defendant testified that his income from Christian Science was about $6000 during the last five years.

As to Mrs. Benzecry's visit, he said he had repeatedly informed her that Christian Science treatment was a prayer to God and that the charge did not believe in medicine or drugs. He added:

"Christian Science does not recognize disease."

LUNCHEON GIVEN
AT MILLS COLLEGEMembers of Collegiate Alumnae Entertained at an Elaborate Affair.

Mills college was the scene this afternoon of an elaborate luncheon, when the members of the California branch of the Collegiate Alumnae were entertained by Mrs. Susan B. Mills and Dr. Luella Clay Carson, head of the Oakland institution. The affair was one of the most elaborate ever given at the college, and was attended by about a hundred women.

The guests, on their arrival, gathered at Lasser hall, where a short meeting was held before the luncheon. The plans for re-organizing the national association were considered at this gathering.

The program was directed by a number of girls from Mills college, who had charge of the affair under the direction of Miss Lulu Blumberg. Miss Hope Jordan, Miss May Fitzgerald and Miss Beatrice Backlund contributed numbers. Prominent members of the association responded to toasts.

ROOSEVELT ADDS
ONE MORE PLANKDeclares Conservation of the Resources Has Been Abandoned by Others.

ST. PAUL, March 30.—Another plank in the platform upon which Colonel Roosevelt is to fight out his campaign was brought forth in a speech which he made here last night, on "The Welfare of the Farmer," in which he said the movement for conserving the country's natural resources and for helping the betterment of country life had not been carried forward since the end of his administration. He advocated a policy of government activity in this direction.

The Colonel referred to his appointment of the national conservation commission and added:

"Unfortunately the policy thus begun was completely reversed by the appointment of Ballinger and the dismissal of Gifford Pinchot."

Speaking of the movement for betterment of country life, Colonel Roosevelt expressed the belief that farmers should adopt the co-operative system.

Roosevelt's address to the auditorium here was spectacular. Seated in an automobile he was driven through a rear door of the Hotel St. Paul building into the fringe of the crowd.

He said, in part:

"In the fight in which we now are engaged, the luxury of a stand for the plain people against the bosses. We stand for the rights of the many against approved privilege."

"Well meaning men, with at their head the President of the United States himself, have continually been insisting upon shortcoming of the rule of the people. They have announced that they are against the decision of vital questions by the people because they distrust the 'impulsive action' of the people (although in the particular case referred to this 'impulsive action' would have to be spread over a period of two years, which certainly long enough to permit impulse to become steady purpose) and have insisted that Abraham Lincoln was wrong when he said that this should be a government of, for and by the people and that instead it ought to be a government of the people by a part of the people."

In the contest today we are in a struggle against the same forces that opposed Lincoln. We are striving for precisely the principles for which Lincoln stood. In one of his closing speeches with Douglas, 54 years ago, he spoke as follows:

"That will come in this country when these poor tongues of Judge Douglas and myself shall be silent. It is the eternal struggle between those two principles, right and wrong, which has always been going on in the world. They are the two principles that have stood face to face from the beginning of time and will continue to struggle."

"Change the names so that they will apply to men and events of our own time and this sentence describes the present contest as accurately as it described the contest in which Lincoln was then engaged."

"If Lincoln was right in his speech that I have quoted, then President Taft and all who follow and support him are wrong in upholding the doctrine that it is unsafe to trust the people, and that a part of the people should rule the rest."

"I am sure that the people are right and that the government should be a government of the people by the people for the people."

DEWEY TO UNVEIL
JONES MONUMENTImpressive Ceremonies to Be Held When Statue Is Dedicated.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—An impressive demonstration will mark the unveiling April 15 of the beautiful memorial to John Paul Jones, erected in Potomac park, under an act of Congress. The triumph of the Scotch-American sailor will be proclaimed by distinguished orators, including the president of the United States.

Admiral Dewey will unveil the monument, and among the speakers will be Secretary of the Navy Meyer and General Horace Porter, who discovered John Paul Jones' grave in an abandoned cemetery in Paris. Soldiers, sailors and marines will participate in the parade.

The Jones memorial is the first monument to be erected within the limits of the new Potomac park and also is the first purely naval monument raised in this city since the unveiling in memory of Admiral Dupont in 1881. It consists of a large granite pylon which forms a background for a bronze statue of heroic proportions. The statue was sculptured by Charles H. Niehaus of New York and Carrier and Hastings of the same city designed the pylon and approaches. The cost was $3500.

The unveiling will be a grand affair, and the statue will be unveiled in the presence of the president and the entire cabinet.

IN INCENDIARY FIREST. HELENS, Or., March 30.—The plant of the Columbia County Lumber Company near here was destroyed by fire. The loss will reach $25,000.
The fire is believed to have been of incendiary origin, from the fact that soon after the fire started a terrific explosion occurred.On Wednesday night a quantity of dynamite was stolen from a nearby powder house, and it is believed that the explosion which followed the outbreak of last night's fire was the stolen dynamite. The mill had not been operated for several days. The
